GREAT NEW BATTLE OPENS AT HISTORIC BORODINO

Russia Sure Of Holding Moscow

Hun Drive Is Slowed By Soviets

By The Canadian Press

German and Soviet armies were reported locked in a great new battle today near historic Borodino, where Napoleon crushed the Russians before his entry into Moscow in 1812, and Nazi long-range siege guns were said to be shelling the capital's "outermost defence belt."

As Nazi cannon rumbled a few score miles to the west, S. A. Lozovsky official Soviet spokesman, issued this statement of defiance late today:

"Fresh millions have risen for the defence of Moscow. We know the Germans will never capture Moscow."

Lozovsky told newsmen the German advance had been slowed and even halted in many sectors, asserted the Germans had not encircled the Red armies before Moscow as Berlin claimed, and declared "the gap between the numbers of Russian and German troops at the front is diminishing."

FORECASTS AWAKENING

Forecasting a rude awakening for the Nazis, Lozovsky said "We can send forces of enormous size of which the Germans have no conception."

London advices said German vanguards had pushed as far as Mozhaisk, 60 miles west of Moscow, but had been driven back toward

Ald. Paterson Will Not Run For Election

Ald. A. Blair Paterson announced Tuesday that he would not seek election to any civic office at the November 12 municipal election. Intimation of his intention not to seek re-election as an alderman was made to Harvey Harrison, chairman of the Citizens' Committee nominating committee in a letter dated October 14.

Regret at Mr. Paterson's decision was expressed by Mr. Harrison and other members of the Citizens' Committee executive and thanks for the splendid services rendered by him on the aldermanic and other civic boards.

Mr. Paterson was first elected to the city council to serve the unexpired term of Mayor John W. Fry . . . the latter resigned from the aldermanic board to successfully contest the mayoralty, and was re-elected for two years in 1938, and again last year to serve the unexpired term of Ex-Ald. Ira Dent, who was defeated when he resigned as alderman to contest the mayoralty.

He has been chairman of the Library Board, and also served on the Edmonton Exhibition Association's Board. He sponsored the installation of Edmonton's water softener plant, and recently completed for the city commissioners a comprehensive report on trolley bus transportation in western United States cities.

TEXT OF LETTER

The following is the text of his letter to Mr. Harrison:

May I say at the outset that I have appreciated the endorsation

Unidentified Airplanes, Boats Are Sighted Off Baffin Island

Thousands See These Scenes At Patriotic Rally Thanksgiving Day

More than 12,000 citizens of Edmonton and district Monday witnessed one of the largest patriotic rallies ever to be held in this part of the province. Pictured above are some of the features of the Thanksgiving Day's events. Upper left are members of the Edmonton Maple Leafs and the Notre Dame Hounds tangling during the rugby game that was won by Edmonton, 18-5. Upper right, Notre Dame players are grouped around their coach, Rev. Fr. Athol Murray, main speaker prior to the game. Lower left are members of the No. 4 Initial Training School, R.C.A.F., led by Flt. Lt. Gerald Milson, taking the salute at the saluting base. Lower right are airmen staging a display of physical training that opened events. (See story Page 9).

By J. A. MacLEAN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14. — (BUP) — A high official of the Hudson's Bay Company's vast Arctic weather reporting network, confirmed exclusively today that a "number of unidentified airplanes and boats, possibly enemy craft," had been sighted off Baffin Island across the mouth of Hudson Bay in recent months.

Baffin Island is 200 miles west of Greenland where United States naval units recently seized a Nazi radio station. The H.B.C. official indicated that Canadian stations on Baffin Island co-operated with American authorities in locating the Vierman transmitter.

He also reported that a Canadian vessel accompanied the American naval unit that took over the cryolite mine in southern Greenland. He described the mine as the "only source of cryolite—a source of aluminum—in North America.

STRAITS PATROLLED

It is said now that American Consolidated bombers are maintaining a constant patrol of Davis Straits and all unofficial shipping has been banned from the Labrador coast where the Consolidateds are based. In connection with the seizure of the Nazi radio station in Greenland, the official indicated that adverse weather conditions delayed the location and destruction of the station despite knowledge that it existed.

It was also disclosed that the entire Eskimo population of 600 and local managers and radio operators on Baffin Island had been formed into "civilian air protection corps" with instructions to report all unidentified airplanes and boats immediately to the government station at Nottingham Island which is in direct radio communication with Ottawa.

Four radio stations are located on Baffin Island's east coast nearest Greenland, a fifth is on Resolution Island in Hudson Straits, and two more are located on the southern shore of Baffin Island.

WEATHER DATA VALUABLE

It was said that these stations work in conjunction with a number of others spread along the rim of the Arctic circle as well as with two stations in Greenland, one at Disko Bay on the west coast and the second on the southern tip.

Weather data compiled from Greenland, Baffin Island and northern Quebec stations, particularly Fort Mackenzie, is "invaluable in forecasting weather for transatlantic ferry flights from Newfoundland," the official stated.

It was indicated that the R.C.M.P. are maintaining a constant patrol of Baffin Island's eastern coast, checking reports of any strange airplanes and boats. Personnel of H.B.C. posts has been issued silhouette descriptions and photographs of all types of planes.

Plant Capacity For Explosives To Be Expanded

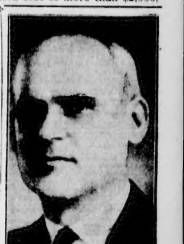

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Further expansion of Canada's extensive explosives and chemical program was announced today by Munitions Minister Howe when he said new work involving an estimated cost of more than $2,000,000 has been authorized.

Mr. Howe also predicted in a statement "increasing demands may necessitate a still further enlargement of our program, and ways and means to this end are now being studied." Capital expenditures for explosives and chemicals and ammunition filling plants now totals in excess of $112,000,000.

Operations have started at several new plants, principal of which are two ammonia producers. Of the 23 projects under way, 20 now are operating and the three remaining plants are scheduled to start production late this autumn. Plant construction on the original program being administered by Allied War Supplies Corporation now is 95 per cent complete.

Of the 20 projects producing, 10 are major undertakings. Three are

Purchase Of Land At Airport Urged

Moving swiftly to acquire land necessary for Edmonton's airport extension, city commissioners will recommend to the city council Tuesday evening that 80 acres abutting Blatchford Field be purchased from the C. N. R. at a cost of $15,000.

The property is northeast of the airport and is required for extension of the runways. City commissioners asked for a donation of the land for this purpose, but officials of the railway intimated it was not possible to make the donation. They suggested the purchase of the land at its assessed value of $20,450, and after negotiation agreed to its sale for $15,000.

Arrangements for financing can be made at the city's convenience, possibly through deduction from taxes over a period of years.

FIX VOTING HOURS

Council will be asked also to fix the hours of polling on election day.

RAIDS ON REICH STEPPED UP

R.A.F. Presses Offensive

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Royal Air Force bombers blasted targets in Duesseldorf, Cologne and other objectives in western Germany last night in the revitalized aerial offensive, the air ministry announced today.

A small force also attacked the docks at Boulogne, and shipping was raided off the French and Netherlands coasts.

Five British aircraft were lost.

It was the fourth consecutive assault upon Germany, one of a series of around-the-clock attacks instituted on Germany or Germany-occupied territory since a long period of bad weather kept the bulk of Britain's airmen grounded.

(Nazi sources in Berlin said a number of civilians were killed or wounded during the night when the R.A.F. bombed several western German localities.)

Activity over the British Isles continued slight. A few bombs were dropped but slight damage and no casualties were reported.

Tension Rises In Hunt For Fugitive Slayer

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Oct. 14.—(CP)—The hunt for Stanley Graham, fugitive farmer wanted for murder, entered its seventh day today with tension reaching the breaking point in the rugged west coast district of South Island.

Six possemen have been killed during the pursuit. Entrenched machine-gun emplacements have been set up at all strategic points and planes scour the forests throughout the day.

Five gun battles have been fought and Graham is believed to have been wounded twice. A total blackout has been enforced in settlements which Graham is known to have approached during past nights. Women and children are evacuated from isolated homesteads at dusk.

Provinces To Manage Order Wage Control

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Administration of new wage control measures will be in the hands of provincial labor departments, it was learned today, as the news spotlight in Ottawa's new program of economic stabilization shifted to the problem of wages and labor.

Labor ministers from all provinces were in session with the federal labor minister, Hon. Norman McLarty, with the likelihood that the conference will continue all day. A call was sent out to the provincial ministers to assemble in Ottawa over the week-end, it was indicated, when the decision was reached to proceed with wage control at the same time as price control.

The proposals being explained to the provincial ministers, it is understood, include establishment of a wage ceiling of the 1926-29 level and enforcement of the ceiling by regional boards headed by the provincial labor ministers. The 1926-29 wage level was recognized in December, 1940, as the fair and reasonable level for Canada for the duration. It was set up as the standard to guide conciliation

U.S. Is Rushing Arms To Soviet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—In an apparent effort to encourage Russian resistance to the vast German offensive, President Roosevelt proclaimed to the world Monday that the United States was rushing large amounts of supplies to help the Soviet Union's "brave defence".

A formal statement issued by the White House declared:

"The President announced today that within the past few days large amounts of supplies have been sent to Russia. He further stated that all of the munitions, including tanks, airplanes and trucks, promised at the Moscow conference for delivery in October, will be sent to Russia before the end of the month.

"These supplies are leaving United States ports constantly.

"The staffs in the army and the maritime commission have worked over the past week-end rushing supplies to the seaboard and everything possible is being done to send the material to Russia to help the brave defence which continues to be made."

The President did not disclose specific amounts of war supplies the United States had promised to

Planes Move Over North Air Bases

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Civilian aviation department officials said today that in spite of bad weather conditions in recent weeks traffic was moving regularly along the "northwest passage by air," the chain of airports through Alberta, British Columbia and the Yukon to Alaska.

A party of United States air officers en route to an inspection of bases in Alaska passed along the Canadian route during the past week but it was understood this was only one of several machines of the United States services which have used the new fields.

The string of fields from Edmonton to Whitehorse, sufficient to accommodate large, fast airplanes, was developed at high speed by the transport department this year. Except for certain radio services now being rushed to completion the route through rough country offers the pilot facilities equal to those of long-established air lines in the south.

Nazi Radio Ship Reaches Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Nazi radio expedition ship, captured by the United States navy off the coast of Greenland after a secret wireless station had been set up there, arrived at Boston today in the custody of the naval ship Bear.

The small 60-ton Nazi-controlled vessel, of Norwegian registry, which the United States navy intercepted in American defence waters "during September," and her crew of about 20 arrived during the morning at the entrance of the harbor and anchored.

The Bear, former flagship of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expeditions, after communicating with local naval authorities, subsequently received orders to proceed to a berth.

Authorities said personnel of the seized ship would be brought to the immigration station and would be subjected to the established procedure for dealing with foreign LONDON, Oct. 14.—(CP)—C. A. Banks, London representative of the Canadian department of munitions and supply, back from a tour of Canada, declared in a statement today that he is "well satisfied with the progress the Dominion is making in her war effort." He said he was particularly pleased with the adaptability of Canadian manufacturers and workers to the highly industrialized needs of the war effort.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE reported landing of a British expeditionary force at Archangel has not been confirmed, but if true it has a significant bearing on the effort being made by Great Britain and the United States to pour supplies into Russia and keep her in the fight against Germany.

Defence of Archangel would be a logical step, so that some credence may be given the report. Britain's refusal to confirm it could be attributed to war time secrecy.

It is primarily a question of supply. The number of troops Britain could land at Archangel would be of little value as fighting units alongside Russia, which has more need of the tools of war than of manpower.

SUPPLY ROUTE KEY

Archangel is a keystone in the northern supply route from Britain to Russia. The latter has only two Arctic ports. The first is Murmansk, which is ice free during the winter and is connected by rail with Leningrad. The second, how-

SUBS NEAR U.S. VESSELS

Hun U-Boats Refrain From Attacking American Ships

By PHIL AULT

REYKJAVIK, Oct. 7.—(Delayed) — (BUP) — British and American naval authorities revealed today that German submarines have been within striking distance of American-escorted convoys repeatedly since inauguration of U. S. convoys Sept. 16.

These authorities said, however, Germany either has warned submarine commanders to observe a "hands off" policy toward American-protected shipping or Nazi commanders have been afraid to attack American convoys.

Not a single ship escorted to Iceland under U. S. protection has been lost in the three weeks the convoy plan has been in operation.

EXCLUSIVE

During that period, naval authorities said, German submarines have been known to be in the immediate vicinity of American-protected ships.

The battle of the Atlantic, these authorities said, took a favorable

DAGGER POINTED AT BERLIN

Canadian Military Power Grows From Month To Month

Army Strength 230,000 Volunteers, Not Counting Draftees And Reservists

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—The physical proportions of Canadian military power are growing steadily and to keep the details in perspective one must revise his ideas almost from month to month. In four months since June 1 the Canadian navy has grown by fifty per cent and the air force training potential has been stepped up in the same ratio.

Canada has more than 100,000 picked men overseas and the Canadian Corps described by General McNaughton recently as a dagger pointed at the heart of Berlin, has steadily gathered strength. But the weight of manpower and material organising behind the overseas corps, the fighting units of the R.C.A.F. the navy, is the factor likely to tell when the dagger strikes. The growth of Canadian military power, taken as a demonstration of the striking force being lined up against Germany in other dominions and democracies, is gaining in pace month by month. It is leading to the grand climax of the war in a great land assault, as if organized of delayed-action thunderbolts from many quarters of the globe, will burst upon Hitler Germany.

Comparisons of Canada's mobilized forces can be drawn from issues of pamphlets published monthly by the bureau of public information. The issue of June 1 showed Canada with 80,000 troops overseas and 170,000 men enlisted for service anywhere in training at home. The October 1 issue, just published, reports 100,000 men overseas and 238,000 at home. The active service forces of 280,000 men four months ago have grown to forces of 338,000 now.

These figures do not take into account 170,000 partially - trained reservists liable to be called out for home defence. If they were counted, Canada's mobilization of manpower for military duty could be said to be passing the half-million mark this month.

But many of the reservists are still in civilian occupation and they are only part-time soldiers. They correspond to Britain's 1,500,000 Home Guards. A significant and unnoticed change is occurring in the nature and state of training of Canada's home defence army. There have been 25,000 draftees called up for training and full-time duty already. Those that do not enlist for overseas duty are assigned if needed, to active duty at home. Slowly the home defence forces are being transformed into full-time service forces.

CANADIAN NAVY

On June 1 the Canadian navy was reported officially to consist of 200 ships of various types and types, none larger than destroyers and auxiliary cruisers, with 17,500 officers and men. On October 1, the official figures were 300 ships and 25,000 officers and men. Projecting the trend into the future, by February 1, the Canadian navy will have the projected strength of 400 vessels and 32,500 officers and men.

The Canadian army four months ago consisted of 158,000 volunteers, not counting draftees and reserves. Now the army strength is 230,000 men. On this basis, by next spring the strength will be 300,000 with about 150,000 overseas ready for the plunge of the dagger into the heart of Germany.

Statistics of the Royal Canadian Air Force are getting a little out of hand, and perhaps there is design in this. Last June the R.C.A.F. had 62 air schools in operation and the official air force estimate was that in September there would be 83 schools in operation. Actually by October 1 there were 91 schools in operation, an increase of 50 per cent. More than that, on the last day of September, Mr. Power announced in a speech in Montreal that "we will build almost as many schools and stations as we have built so far." Last June the air force was enlisting about 3,000 men a month. But in August the figure was 4,000 and this month the new official booklet reports 16,000 enlistments in September.

These figures deal only with the growth of the last four months.

Spearhead Of Nazi Panzers Is Repulsed

Sorodina, which lies 10 miles to the west.

Berlin dispatches claimed the Nazi war machine was thundering ever closer to Moscow over the bodies of Russian soldiers who fell as they charged in ranks 15 deep. Ranks and fields were described by the Germans as "thick with Soviet dead.

Hitler's high command claimed 200,000 Red army troops had been taken prisoner so far in the Vyazma and Bryansk sectors, and reported Russian resistance in the blazing ruins of Vyazma had been definitely "liquidated."

TOWN IS FIRED

D.N.B., German news agency, said the Russians fired the town and blew up the chief buildings before they retreated.

German spokesmen likened the situation in Moscow to the atmosphere of Paris in June, 1940, just before its surrender, but declared the Soviet capital was heavily fortified and could not claim to be an open city as did Paris.

German troops were credited with slashing new gains of approximately 110 and 60 miles in two vital sectors of the 13-day-old battle for Moscow.

"Dissolution of the enemy in the circle around Bryansk is continuing unchecked," the German high command said in a special bulletin.

No amplification was forthcoming on the report that German siege guns were now in a position to shell Moscow's outer perimeter of defences. Normally, field guns have a range under 25 miles, but German "Big Berthas" during the first Great War bombarded Paris from a distance of more than 75 miles. Furthermore the outer defences of a great city might be 50 or more miles from the city proper.

FALL IS ADMITTED

The Russians, reporting a vast slaughter of the invaders, admitted the fall of strategic Vyazma, 125 miles west of Moscow, but declared the German offensive was slackening before growing Red army resistance in that sector.

Soviet front - line dispatches pictured a series of gigantic mechanized battles raging over the fields west of Moscow, with the Germans hurling tanks and motorized infantry from one sector to another in an effort to find soft spots.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said the Germans had been thrown back 16 miles in one sector, and other Soviet reports told of the death of 10,000 Nazis in three actions.

SUMMARY OF BATTLE

Military advices reaching London said the battle was intensifying in fury, and gave this sector-by-sector summary:

1—Orel, 210 miles south of Moscow: "The Germans are attacking in great strength, but the Russians appear to be holding them at present."

2—Bryansk, 210 miles southwest of Moscow: "The situation is obscure, although reports from Moscow indicate the Russians have the situation in hand."

3—On the Roslav-Moscow axis: "The Germans appear to have advanced on a narrow front and in great strength. Their advanced units reached Mozhaisk but were ejected by the Russians and heavy fighting is continuing."

4—From the Valdai Hills: "The German drive toward Rzhev (140 miles northwest of Moscow) appears to be making some progress."

CLAIM "ANNIHILATION"

German front-line reports said Red forces trapped in the Vyazma sector were "nearly annihilated," that more than 350,000 prisoners had been taken in the Vyazma-Bryansk battles, and that Russians fleeing the Bryansk region had taken to forests and fields to dodge the attacks of Nazi dive-bombers.

Vyazma, an agricultural centre of about 40,000 population, 125 miles west of Moscow, changed hands as Orel and Bryansk had previously, wrecked by bombs, shells and fires.

Moscow observers described traffic upon the Moscow-Vyazma highway in a midway area as orderly, with military movements both in and from the front.

Compulsory War Service Urged By Legion Head

WETASKIWIN, Oct. 14—(CP)—Alex Walker, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, appealed to the federal government Monday on behalf of the Legion for "the utmost, all-out conscription of which this Dominion of ours is capable, for service wherever our front line lies."

"They (the government) will find that the great majority of the Canadian people will back them to the hilt," he said.

To play a decisive part in the gigantic battles ahead Canada should have an army of at least 1,000,000 men, with ancillary troops and modern equipment, Mr. Walker said. The Dominion could raise and maintain such a force, but it would require "fearless, determined leadership, and the introduction without delay of compulsory selective national service."

EQUALITY OF SACRIFICE

"To veterans of the First Great War conscription is the only way the problem of manpower can be satisfactorily solved, and it is the only democratic way because, properly administered, it gives that equality of sacrifice which is completely missing from our present system.

"And when the Legion talks about conscription it means for service at . . . the front line of the British Commonwealth, wherever it may be."

Mr. Walker, addressing a Legion rally here, referred to the calling of an extraordinary session of the Legion's dominion executive council, to be held later this month to "focus the attention of our government and people" on conscription.

He then mentioned the speech made in Toronto last week by Resources Minister Crerar, in which the minister said he was convinced the majority of Canadians would approve conscription for overseas service if they believed it was the one thing necessary to defeat Hitler and that he would do so himself, and added: "But I am equally convinced that an assumption of this kind has no basis in common sense in the present discussion."

OPPOSITE VIEWS

A month before, said Mr. Walker, the adjutant-general of the Canadian army, Maj.-Gen. B. W. Browne who has jurisdiction over recruiting and personnel, said on a national broadcast: "Our need is grave. There is only one power on earth that will beat Hitler—manpower. Never let it be said that our men were of the best but our numbers too few."

"Now," said Mr. Walker, "there we have two diametrically opposite views expressed by two great servants of the state at this crucial hour.

"On the one hand the minister of mines and resources—a fine Canadian citizen who in the administration of his own department has rendered distinguished service to the Dominion but has had no war or military experience whatever. He said that conscription for overseas service is not necessary to defeat Hitler, and that 'an assumption of this kind has no basis in common sense.'

FOR PEOPLE TO JUDGE

"On the other hand we have the adjutant-general—a distinguished officer whose gallant service in the first Canadian Corps is well remembered by many of his fellow-veterans and who since the last war has been a full-time soldier. He says that 'only one power' on earth can beat Hitler—man-power,' and that is exactly what the Canadian Legion says.

"I leave it to the Canadian people to judge whether the mines minister—however able and efficient in his own calling—is better qualified to determine what is required to defeat the Nazi barbarians than the adjutant-general of the forces and the veterans of the Canadian Legion, who 23 years ago helped to defeat that same unspeakable enemy."

Mr. Walker said that in replying to Mr. Crerar's remarks he wished to "reiterate the oft-stated policy of the Canadian Legion: Total disinterest in party politics and consequent complete abstinence from participation in party politics."

"As regards selective conscription for service anywhere the Legion urges with all its strength that this vital question be stripped clean of political considerations," he said.

"No regard for party prestige should be permitted to come between the plain duty of our leaders and the immediate adoption of a plan for the utilization of the whole of Canada's effective manpower and resources."

Danish Steamship Sinks In Collision

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 14.—(AP) — The 3,198-ton Danish steamship Bonita sank in one minute today after a collision with the 1,946-ton Swedish steamship Bolan off the southern tip of Sweden, and 21 of her crew were missing. Only four were rescued.

German Courts Press Fight Against French Opposition With Executions

PARIS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The 77th French victim of German firing squads was executed this morning as German authorities pressed their fight against Communists and other opposition to their occupying forces.

Three more Communists received sentences ranging up to 20 years at hard labor before a Paris special court yesterday. A special court at Rennes in Brittany passed sentences on a railroad worker and an escaped Communist.

The Parisian shot to death today was tried four days ago by a German military court on a charge of possessing a cache of explosives, the occupying authorities announced.

Only yesterday it was announced four oppositionists had attacked a munitions dump and escaped with 110 pounds of dynamite and one oppositionist was shot on the technical accusation of merely possessing a gun, although actually, he had drawn it on a German patrol.

Funny Business

"This is our famous razzberry model—little Boppo pops up and hands out the razzberry every time you pass a duplicate!"

British Wheat, Sugar Reserves Now Filled

LONDON, Oct. 14—(CP)— The Ministry of Food announced today that Britain's stocks of wheat and sugar have "reached a state where it is no longer necessary to build up any more reserves."

Wheat stocks are larger than at any time since the outbreak of war, arrivals having formed a much larger proportion of actual loading in exporting countries than the ministry had anticipated.

"This means we will be able to devote shipping to more attractive foods than these bulk commodities and the nation will benefit in a greater variety of diet," the ministry added.

Discontent Said Serious In Essen

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(CP)—The Moscow radio, heard here by Reuters News Agency, today reported serious discontent in Essen, German armaments centre which has been heavily bombed by the Royal Air Force.

"Conditions in Essen reflect the desperate strain which is felt in the German rear," the Moscow radio declared, adding a number of arrests followed an anti-Fascist demonstration in the German city a few days ago.

The radio said the demonstration occurred when workers of Werden, an Essen suburb, marched to the residence of a local official to demand publication of the names of men killed on the eastern front.

The workers, according to the Moscow account, also demanded an answer as to whether the war would end this year as Hitler has promised.

Lisbon Vessel On U.S. Voyage Sunk By Nazis

LISBON, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Portuguese steamship Corte Real, bound for the United States with an American doctor among its six passengers, was sunk Sunday by a German submarine which towed the ship's life boats 20 miles in toward the Portuguese coast and gave two boat-ship women and two children a ride aboard the submarine itself.

Windsors Given Hearty Welcome In Baltimore

By EDWARD O. ETHELL

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A quarter of Baltimore's 1,000,000 residents greeted on Sunday to cheer welcome to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and, just incidentally, give the former Baltimore girl and her royal husband the once over.

Amid the most rousing turnout in the city's history, the Windsors drove from a city hall welcome to a reception at the Baltimore Country Club. The police—550 of them on special detail—at times had difficulty clearing a path for a six-car cavalcade.

It was a chorus of "oh's" and "ah's" that sang the guests on their way.

A shop girl near city hall will "never forget it."

A negro mammy was desolate because "dey both turned de other way."

CLUB RECEPTION

At the spacious club, the committee in charge had suggested the 800 invited guests bow to the couple on the reception line. The Duke had other ideas; he took the hand of each and pumped vigorously.

A former school teacher of the Duchess held up the fast-moving line to kiss her pupil.

The former Rosa Ponselle, now Mrs. Carle Jackson and daughter-in-law of Mayor Howard W. Jackson, ended the one-hour reception singing the American and British anthems.

At City Hall, the mayor, referring to the war in his official welcome said, "until the day of victory comes, and come it must, and always after that, we hope both of you will continue to regard Baltimore as another home, where you will always find peace and happiness."

The Duke declared that "our visit means for the Duchess a reuniting with her family and for me, an introduction into their home circle."

Airman Killed As Plane Sinks In Sylvan Lake

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

SYLVAN Lake, Oct. 14—Howard Anderson, 43, of Tadanac, (near Trail), B.C., superintendent of aircraft for Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., Ltd., was killed when the company plane he was piloting overturned and sank after landing on Sylvan Lake, about 4 p.m., Sunday.

Eric Gurney Randall, also of Tadanac, assistant chief accountant for the smelting company, escaped uninjured, but was suffering slightly from shock. He was taken to Sylvan Lake hotel.

The plane had landed on the lake and was taxi-ing to the government pier when one of the pontoons struck a snag and it overturned about 400 yards from the pier and sank in about 10 feet of water. The men were stopping here to break the journey from Goldfields to Tadanac and had left Cooking Lake at Edmonton earlier in the afternoon.

ESCAPED FROM PLANE

Randall managed to get out of the plane after it had overturned and was rescued from the water in a dazed condition, by John Holdsworth, Sr., who went to his aid in an old punt. "I don't know how I did it," Randall said of his escape.

Several hundred people were gathered on the pier to watch the plane come in. The citizens secured about 1,000 feet of rope and towed the plane to the pier. It was discovered that Pilot Anderson had his neck broken and his head injured. He apparently had been thrown forward against the instrument board.

Dr. W. A. Henry, who arrived almost immediately, pronounced him dead. As coroner, he decided that no inquest was necessary.

Kenneth F. Saunders, inspector of the civil aviation branch, department of transport, Edmonton, is making an investigation of the accident.

WAS HOCKEY PLAYER

Anderson, who was a pilot during the first Great War, has been with the Consolidated company since 1936, when he went to Trail, B.C., from Coleman, Alta., to play hockey for the Trail senior team.

He was employed by the mining and smelting company for many years as a bush pilot in the company's northern districts and had more than 3,000 flying hours to his credit.

He leaves his widow at Tadanac, near Trail, his mother in Vancouver, and two sisters, Mrs. J. K. Hill of Regina, and Mrs. Frank Green of Calgary. His body was shipped to Trail for burial.

Nominations Filed For N.S. Elections

HALIFAX, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Nova Scotia's general election campaign swung into top gear today as candidates in 28 ridings filed nomination papers for the 30 seats at stake in the Oct. 28 balloting. Nominations close at 11 a.m., M.S.T.

The Liberals are making their bid for a renewed mandate in this wartime election under Premier A. S. MacMillan, 72-year-old political veteran who never before has led the party to the polls. He took over when Premier Angus L. Macdonald went to Ottawa last year as navy minister.

Another youthful Leonard W. Fraser, the Conservatives are seeking a return to the power they lost in 1933. At dissolution, they held only five seats, against 24 Liberals and one C.C.F. Two seats were vacant.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, go out today (not tomorrow) and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful misuse of nature's warning and proper treatment is needed at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any Sterling Drug Store or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a simple easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender tissue. Hem-Roid is also used for use by many recommended and it seems the height of folly for any person to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the result, your druggist will gladly return your money.

For both business and personal reasons I would prefer to withdraw my name from consideration by your committee for any elective municipal office in the forthcoming municipal election.

Accepting nomination by your committee at a time when there was a dirth of aldermanic material, I am sure you will have no difficulty in finding an abler and better candidate to fill my place. Having accepted the endorsation of your committee, I have endeavored, and I trust have successfully conducted the matters which came before me in my capacity as an alderman, with equality and without partiality.

I wish your committee continued success in its effort to give to the citizens of Edmonton, efficient, courteous and business-like municipal administration.

Man Wounded In Hunting Accident

With his body pierced completely with a bullet fired from the rifle of a hunting companion, while the pair were shooting in the Good Fish Lake area Friday, David Erasmus, 65-year-old halfbreed, was making a good fight for his life in Vilna hospital, it was learned here Tuesday.

R.C.M.P. headquarters here stated that Erasmus was shot by John Whitford. The two were apparently riding horseback near each other at the time.

The bullet struck Erasmus under the fourth rib, punctured the left lung, and passed out the back.

The injured man was attended by Dr. Eadie of Vilna.

GERMANY WINS PAPER VICTORY

Persuades Turkey To Provide Reich With Chromium

Hitler Wins A Point In Forcing Turks To Curtail Supplies To Democracies

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(CDN)—Germany has won a paper victory and not much more in persuading the Turks to offer her 100,000 tons of chromium per year in 1943 and 1944.

The Germans had first demanded that Turkey break her current agreement with the United States and Great Britain under which those two countries receive her entire chromium output until the end of 1942. When the Turks refused to do this, the Germans demanded 150,000 tons yearly, or half Turkey's chromium output—whichever was greater—beginning in 1943.

EXCLUSIVE

In their counter-offer, the Turks have agreed to provide 100,000 long yearly but have made two conditions which must be embarrassing to the Germans: First, that before the end of next year the Germans shall deliver war material to the value of 18,000,000 Turkish pounds, for which the Turks have already contracted, and that the chromium delivered in 1943 and 1944 shall be compensated by equivalent deliveries of further German war material during those two years.

The Germans have won a point in forcing the Turks to agree to cut their chromium supplies to the United States and Great Britain 13 months hence and the chromium they themselves would receive, if the agreement went through, would help the German war machine.

On the other hand, it is pointed out here that a great deal is going to happen between now and 1943 and that Turkey's position will certainly have altered by then. In deference to Turkey it is recognizable that Nazi pressure is very heavy at the present time and that it is practically impossible for the Turks to avoid a clash with the Germans before winter. It is the Turks' idea, apparently, that the Germans cannot attack them successfully during the winter months.

The British refuse to subscribe to the view expressed by John V. A. MacMurray, American ambassador to Ankara in his press conference. He is reported by the Turks to have said that Turkey had "sold out to Germany." Considerable ill-feeling is understood to have been caused in Ankara by this expression of opinion.

boards in advising on wage disputes. But it has been widely violated, especially in non-war industry outside the scope of the Industrial Disputes Act. Decision to make it compulsory, it is understood, has now been taken by the government.

FINISHING TOUCHES

Meanwhile, the new, comprehensive Canadian price control program is receiving the finishing touches, and an authoritative source indicated this morning that an official announcement is expected for Thursday.

The position of farm prices and the effect of the price control program on wheat policy were reportedly considered over the long Thanksgiving week-end by the wheat committee of the cabinet. There will be no change in the basic wheat policy, it is indicated, and the formula of wheat assistance based on calculation of wheat income will remain in effect. At the same time a step will be taken, it is learned, to boost the effective price of wheat through the existing means of acreage payments. The present effective price, estimated by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, as 90 cents at Fort William, will likely be increased to a dollar. In any event, action to increase the wheat farmers' share of the national income is regarded as certain here.

WHEAT PLAN

Another cabinet meeting is expected to be held before the new program is announced to the public. Weighing prospects in advance of final decision by the cabinet, it appears that the western wheat pools' proposal of crediting all current wheat sales to the 1941-42 crop year has a good chance of acceptance. Such a scheme, its advocates believe, would mean at least $1 price for wheat.

In the background of Canadian policy on wheat, a proposal for creating a stabilization fund reserve for post-war distribution in Europe and elsewhere if needed, is taking shape. Secretary Leith-Ross, chief economic adviser to the British government, is expected in Ottawa later this month in connection with a proposed Anglo-American raw materials pool. Related to this problem is the scheme for setting aside a big international wheat reserve, which would absorb an estimated 250,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

Canada Output Of Explosives To Be Expanded

explosives plants, two are shell-filling units, one is engaged in fuse-filling, two are manufacturing ammonia, another a special chemical, while the last is producing sulphuric acid.

Of the 10 smaller undertakings in operation, eight are chemical plants —producing, among other things, perchlorates, a smoke - producing chemical, and important intermediates—while one is engaged in the manufacture of special powders.

The three remaining plants, one a major explosive undertaking, are scheduled to start production late this autumn.

September operations of the explosives and chemical plants, Mr. Howe said, were satisfactory and the value of the month's output runs into several millions of dollars. Production is increasing substantially month by month, he said. The minister also reported that operations in the ammunition filling plants are satisfactory. Two new units started operations during August.

Nearly 9,000 men now are employed on construction work and 13,000 on production. Upon completion of the program, it is estimated that approximately 30,000 men and women will be employed in carrying out the vast program.

Newspaper Group Names Officers

Charles A. Clarke, High River, was appointed secretary-treasurer of the Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association at a meeting of the newly-elected executive of the association which met at the conclusion of the convention here last Saturday.

Mr. Clarke replaces Miss Hazel MacCrea, Calgary, who resigned after serving in that capacity for four years.

He resigned from his position as first vice-president to accept the secretarial duties. Gordon Neale, Fort Saskatchewan, was elevated from the position of second vice-president to become first vice-president, and W. H. Schierholtz, Rocky Mountain House, became second vice-president.

A resolution expressing regret over the enforced retirement, due to ill health, of John M. Imrie, as vice-president and managing director of the Edmonton Journal, was passed. A request that the secretary send him a letter of appreciation for his co-operation with the weeklies during a period of 20 years was granted.

Caucus To Study Debt Refunding

Refunding of the Alberta public debt of about $147,000,000 will be one of the major subjects to be discussed when Social Credit members of the legislature, at 10 a.m. Wednesday, commence a three-day caucus at the legislative buildings. It is expected that all 56 members eligible to attend will be present when the roll is called.

Alfred J. Hooke, M.L.A. for Rocky Mountain House, chairman of the caucus, will preside. A. V. Bourcier, M.L.A. for Lac Ste. Anne, is party whip.

The caucus is expected to hear a report on the progress of refunding negotiations. A joint committee, made up of four government and four bondholders' representatives has been considering plans for refunding of the public debt at a lower rate of interest. The committee, under the chairmanship of Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, is now adjourned, but may reconvene about Nov. 1.

Another important item on the caucus agenda is the Dominion government offer to take over from the province, the income and corporation taxation fields for the duration of the war. In lieu of revenue from these two fields, the province will be compensated on the basis of 1940 collections from both sources. Already, the cabinet has approved in principle of withdrawing from these fields in favor of the Dominion.

Discussion also is expected to take place on the requests placed before the government for a full investigation into the Koch cancer treatment.

Today's War Moves

ever, claim to have cut the rail line at Pairozavodsk on Lake Ladoga, north of Leningrad. If true, Murmansk would be eliminated temporarily as a gateway for supplies.

Archangel is normally icebound from the end of October until the end of April, so that at first glance there would seem no point in a British expedition there at this time of year. But with Murmansk cut off, it becomes exceedingly important to keep Archangel open, and that can be done for at least another three months, and perhaps longer by use of ice breakers and explosives.

A British force landed there probably would include not only troops for protection, but engineers and workers.

The value of this northern port is given point by public declarations in London and Washington. First Lord Beaverbrook and then President Roosevelt declared that the promised aid to Russia is going on schedule and will continue to go. Both promised that the October quota is being filled and will be delivered.

18 SHORTEST ROUTE

The northern route is one of three for getting supplies to Russia, and it is the shortest and easiest, so that every effort undoubtedly will be made to keep it open. The other routes are across the Pacific to Vladivostok and across the lang trans-Siberian haul, and the Red Sea route. The latter involves a slow transit of Iran and the Caspian Sea to Baku.

Archangel is only 550 miles from Moscow and about the same (by rail) from Leningrad. The third five-year plan called for the complete double-tracking of the Moscow-Archangel line. It was reported in December, 1939, that the work had been completed as far north as Konosha, less than 250 miles from Archangel. In the two years since then, the job could easily have been completed, or could be rushed to completion within a few months.

When finished, the double-tracked line should be able to haul a minimum of 3,000,000 tons of imports a year, if the double-tracked Trans-Siberian is any criterion. The railroad originally was built during the world war, to handle imports of war materials.

HAVE FINE ICE-BREAKERS

The Russians obtained seven ice-breakers from England and were able to keep the port open three additional months. Since then, Russia had developed ice-breakers which probably excel anything in the world. Previously, when the harbor froze up in October, it was kept open by ice-breakers until Jan. 15

The harbor is large and can accommodate hundreds of vessels. There are excellent docking facilities, which is shown by the fact that in 1936, the city's chief industry, lumber, was able to clear 2,250,000,000 board feet of lumber. It has a large power station, operated on local peat.

From the Moscow - Archangel railroad, there is a line branching off at Vologda to Leningrad, 300 miles, westward. Provided this line is not cut, supplies from Archangel should be able to reach both those vital centres, or, if Moscow falls, eastward of there.

Fair Weather Forecast Here As Sun Shines

A forecast of "fair and not much change", unlimited ceilings in the north, and temperature readings ranging from 38 at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday up to 57 at 3:30 p.m. Monday, all point to the beginning of Indian summer.

Temperature readings at some of the northerly points may upset such predictions however. At Aklavik and Dawson the mercury dropped to a mere 8 above while at Fort Norman it registered only two degrees more. Points in northern Alberta registered above freezing readings.

Cochrane Refuses Fight Robinson

SUMMIT, N.J., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Welterweight Champion Freddie (Red) Cochrane said Saturday he had advised the New York State Athletic Commission he will not go through with a non-title bout against Ray Robinson scheduled for Madison Square Garden Oct. 31 unless his manager, Willie Giltzenberg, is reinstated.

Cochrane came here Saturday to go into training for the bout.

Giltzenberg was suspended for six months by the commission last Tuesday on the grounds he had ordered his fighter to "coast" during his one-sided victory the night before over Lew Jenkins.

turn in late September and early October after a bad first half of September when the Germans lauched a series of mass attacks on British shipping which sent losses skyrocketing to the highest figures since last spring.

"FIGHT GOES IN CYCLES"

British and American naval sources said that growing U.S. participation in the defence of the northern shipping route was strengthening the life line but emphasized that "this fight goes on in cycles."

"Sometimes," said a British naval officer, "we are able to keep the U-boats off for weeks at a time. At other times they hit two or three convoys in short order. The entire north Atlantic situation is reasonably favorable now but it is most important to avoid complacency."

He said that the sea lanes between Iceland and America certainly could not be considered safe in view of the occasional sinking of ships in those waters.

German submarines, these sources said, are known to lurk in packs along the Iceland route, seeking a favorable moment to strike.

15 Months' Term On Fraud Count

William McLennan was sentenced to 15 months in jail by Magistrate Millar Saturday, following conviction on seven charges of false pretenses and one charge of theft.

On a charge involving a worthless cheque for $40 sentence of 15 months was imposed. A similar term was imposed for theft of a bicycle from a messenger boy. On each of six charges of false pretences, arising out of payments made by citizens for work on lawns never carried out, four months was the sentence. All terms run concurrently.

Although court was adjourned to give accused an opportunity to tell what he had done with the bicycle, he told police he did not know where it was.

It was stated that the boy from whom the bike was "borrowed" by McLellan has not completed paying for the machine and is unable to do his work without a bicycle.

Alberta exhibits for this show will be assembled in this city under the direction of O. S. Longman, provincial field crops commissioner. Deadline for filing entries in the show is Nov. 10.

Council Will Talk Purchase Airport Land

November 12. It has been the general custom in recent years to have the polls open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and it is anticipated council will pass the necessary bylaw naming these hours. Council will be asked also to designate the number and venue of public meetings to be held during the election campaign. Election day is Wednesday, November 12.

Appointment of R. P. Wallace, clerk of the supreme court, as the voters' list revising officer will be asked.

PROPERTY ASSESSMENT

Made necessary by war requirements and being built at the request of the department of national defence, the Great Western Garment Co., Ltd. will request the council that, when fixing the assessment on this new structure, the assessment both on the land and improvements be fixed at a nominal figure.

It is pointed out in the company's communication that as soon as the war is over the necessity for the addition to the plant will end as the present plant capacity is and will be sufficient to take care of civilian trade.

Resignation of Peter Forbes as chairman of the zoning appeal board, and consideration of the report of violations of the one-family residence area zoning bylaw are other contentious matters which will be before the city council.

Council will be asked to authorize the printing of 30,000 folders advertising Edmonton and district at a cost of approximately $1,200. The folder has been prepared by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a portion of the funds necessary for its printing has been collected by that body.

Shipment routes also remained secret. There was nothing to indicate whether the stream of supplies was flowing across the Atlantic to Russia's Arctic ports, around Africa and up the Persian Gulf for trans-shipment through Iran and the Caucasus, or across the Pacific to Vladivostok.

NAZIS USE 14,000 TANKS IN CAMPAIGN

LONDON, Oct. 14—(CP)—Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply, Sunday reported the Russian belief that the Germans had 30,000 tanks for their eastern campaign and are using 14,000 in the present attack on Moscow, and called for a British and American production of 30,000 —a program "easier than any yet laid down" or even contemplated.

The minister, who was head of the British delegation to the Moscow conference on aid to Russia, said in a broadcast that Britain and the United States had agreed to supply "practically everything" the Russians had asked.

"Certainly," he added, they had agreed to supply them "with all that at present we can give."

He did not say how many tanks Britain had requested, but said Britain must mobilize a super-tank army for the "day when our defensive operations are abandoned in favor of the attack."

PROVIDED FOR MONTH

"As for tanks and aircraft, the numbers that Stalin asked for, let it be said that the full numbers promised for the month of October have been provided," Lord Beaverbrook added. "Guns we have promised, too, a few big guns, plenty of good guns and plenty of ammunition, raw materials—copper, lead, zinc, tin, cobalt, brass, rubber, silk, jute, wool, phosphorus, diamonds, shellac and a long list of other products."

(Reliable reports from commercial sources here indicated that the United States' output of medium tanks now is around 200 a month, with production of tight tanks about double that figure.)

MORE TOOLS GREAT NEED OF RUSSIANS

LONDON, Oct. 14—(CP)—The United States lend-lease co-ordinator, W. Averell Harriman, declared today, "Russia has the machine power—what is needed is more tools."

Harriman, who headed the American delegation to the Moscow conference on aid to Russia, said in a CBC broadcast to the United States:

"I don't know where the front is tonight, we don't know where it will be tomorrow, but I am convinced that, given the tools, Russia will fight on."

"The British are loading ships today, tomorrow—things that are vitally needed. Russia has the men. The same is true in America. Time is everything. Britain and America are responding."

Young Sailor Gets Hand At Monday Rally

A little chap received a big hand at Monday's rally at the Exhibition grounds Manning Pool for the R.C.A.F. He was a tiny 'un who marched with a detachment of the R.C.N.V.R. in a parade that opened the event, and he paraded as official mascot.

Dressed in a sailor suit, the sturdy youngster's name is John Marcus Tipton, aged eight years.

His father is leading Seaman J. H. Tipton of 7708 110 street, attached as instructor to the R.C.N.V.R. barracks here.

Captured Nazi Radio Ship Is Brought To U.S.

national brought to American soil.

The Norwegian craft was identified as the Busko.

Those on the Busko were taken aboard the Bear after entering the harbor, and the Norwegian ship itself was taken to the Boston navy yard.

Naval officials withheld immediate comment on the vessel, although some Washington sources previously had advanced an opinion that the seized expedition might provide evidence of a systematic Nazi attempt to set up meteorological and military listening posts in the Greenland area.

Meteorologists have said that knowledge of weather conditions in Greenland would provide information of extreme importance to the operation of submarines and in the timing of aerial attacks against Great Britain, since Europe's weather moves from west to east across the Atlantic.

CONVOY INFORMATION

It was pointed out, further, that such a listening post might be in a position to supply information about the composition of convoys and the movements of craft in the North Atlantic shipping lanes.

The radio equipment ashore by the vessel was said, in a tense navy communications, to have been "disposed of."

The intercepted radio station was described by the navy as having been "manned by an agent of the German Gide and two other Norwegians," who had been put ashore before the navy intercepted the ship.

Soviets Reported Moving Munition Plants Eastward

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 14—(AP) —A Balkan diplomat newly arrived from Russia said Monday night that vast trainloads of machinery were being hauled from the Don basin eastward to escape the Germans. Much of the industrial population is moving with the factories, he said.

The movement began two months ago and still continues despite the approach of the German armies.

Food supply is becoming an increasing problem, but public morale remains good, he added.

Premier Will Not Discuss Aid To Russia

LONDON, Oct. 14. — (CP)— Prime Minister Churchill refused to be drawn out on the question of aid to Russia at question time in the House of Commons today, and declined to discuss the course of the battle before Moscow.

In a brief exchange, Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, advocate of a British diversion in the west, asked for a debate on aid to Russia.

"The honorable gentleman should not suppose," Mr. Churchill replied, "that he has a monopoly of anxiety in these matters. I do not see any reason at all for an early debate at the present time on the situation in the East.

CLAIMS DISQUIET

"I think it might be detrimental. I am sure it would likely do more harm than good."

Mr. Shinwell declared "There is considerable disquiet in the country about the whole substance and speed of the assistance rendered Russia."

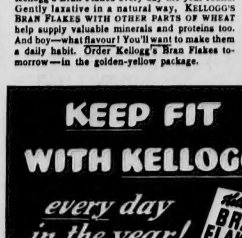

The Prime Minister said any statement on the German offensive "must obviously be left to the Russian high command who are conducting their great battle."

"I should not presume," he said, "to add anything to their communiques at this juncture."

The Public Must Also Help

The cost of living in Canada went up another point in September, and now stands almost 14 per cent higher than it was when the war began. Concurrently comes the timely news that all those dealing in food and clothing must obtain Dominion licenses by the first of December. The licenses cost nothing. They are not imposed as a means of raising revenue, but as a step in the establishment of a broader and more rigid control of prices. This does not guarantee that prices will go no higher, or that no prices will go higher. It should mean that advances will be prevented unless necessary to meet increased cost of producing and delivering the goods.

This of course brings up the question of demands for wage increases. When wages go up production costs go up and prices have to go up, just as surely as when prices are boosted wages must also rise. The rule works both ways. If price control is to mean price stability, there will have to be general consent to refrain from hoisting the wage scales. The Government can prevent profiteering at the counter—because the merchants comprise only a small minority of the population. But in a democratic country government cannot dragoon the great mass of the people into stabilizing wages against their wills. If the public want prices kept down they will have to co-operate in keeping down the production costs which force prices up—despite any system of control.

Canada Needs More Of Them

Twelve thousand people came under the spell of Father Athol Murray's vigorous patriotic idealism at the Exhibition Grounds, Monday afternoon.

He spared nobody's feelings in his trenchant appeal for a more powerful and single-minded war effort. And the thunder of applause proved that his vast audience agreed with him.

Thus was generated, under the aegis of a common and homely thing like a football game, a new and potent current of public determination to pursue the national purpose with utmost will and sacrifice.

Edmonton got acquainted with its airmen. The airmen were assured of the warm support of Edmonton people.

It was a splendid affair of warm concord reflecting credit on those who arranged it and the officers who permitted it.

Canada needs many more such heart-warming occasions to convert our sometimes flaccid patriotism into a living force.

Training Is Vital

Enlistments in Canada's Active army—the branch of the army enlisted for service anywhere—have been running about 6,000 per month, while 7,000 per month were needed to keep the ranks full and round out new units according to program. And to get the 6,000 per month recruiting officers have been working harder than they should have to work, with widely varying results in different parts of the Dominion.

This is not good enough progress, even allowing for the demands of the harvest season, and something must be done to speed up enlistments. Not only to catch up arrears, but to ensure that the monthly quotas will in future be obtained regularly and with less difficulty.

To this end, recruiting officers in several of the provinces, including Alberta, are undertaking to interview every man of military age and fitness. Not, it is explained at Toronto, as a "high pressure attempt to bulldoze or shame men into joining the army," but "to make sure that every man knows everything we can tell him about enlisting"—including first and foremost, it must be supposed, why men are being asked to enlist.

That is the point most needing emphasis. With our "active" army inactive in Britain for nearly two years, there is naturally a wide though wholly mistaken impression that more men are not really required, or are not required at once. That impression must be dispelled, for it is wrong. Men are needed now, not to go overseas shortly and invade the continent, but to start the long course of training without which they would be useless in mechanized war.

If the record of the former war teaches one lesson in this connection it is that men do not hold back from enlisting because they do not want to fight, but because they do not want to spend months and more months in the monotonous business of learning how to fight. Canadians have not changed. They are as ready as ever to fight, but even less ready to undertake the much longer training period now necessary.

If the recruiting officers stress the point that prolonged training is the only way a man can fit himself to fight effectively, or to even protect himself in this machine type of warfare, and if they show the tact enjoined by the Toronto officer, there is no reason whatever to doubt that recruits will be secured in future as fast as they are required and can be equipped and trained.

Hogs and More Hogs

Bacon sold to Britain in the year now commencing will bring $19.00 per hundred pounds for top grade. Prices for lower grades scale down to $16.70. The spread averages at $18.30 per hundred. Last year the initial price was $16.10 for top grade, but this was raised to $19.60 during the year, the Dominion paying $2.50 of the increase. The price for the bottom grade for the coming year is thus 60 cents more than the price for the top grade a year ago.

Britain wants this year 600,000,000 pounds at the minimum—and will take as much more as it can get. At the average gross price of $19.00 this minimum will total $109,800,000 of hog money, distributed among farmers, packers and transportation companies across Canada. The hog crop is thus worth more than the wheat crop.

The lion's share of this money will come to western Canada, for more than half the hog population is now west of the Great Lakes. At June 1st there were 5,993,700 hogs in the Dominion, 3,081,200 of them in the three prairie provinces and British Columbia. Of these four, Alberta had more hogs than the other three combined, the figures for this province being 1,652,800—well over one-quarter of the total for all Canada.

The outlook thus is that $25,000,000 or more will come into this province during the next twelve months in payment for pork products shipped to Britain. As the money will be paid out month by month throughout the year, the benefit to the farming community will be greater on that account. If it is possible to produce enough hogs, the income from this source will be indefinitely greater. There isn't any limit.

Aside from the financial inducement, the Alberta farmer has the further incentive that hog production in the eastern provinces actually declined last year because of lack of feed, and may decline further this year for the same reason. If the minimum of 600,000,000 pounds are to be shipped to Britain there will have to be far heavier output than last year from the western provinces, and of these Alberta is in the best position to expand.

Canada Has Become Second Centre Of The British Empire

Safe and Natural Location for British Industry is This Dominion

By JOHN MacCORMAC

This war has transformed Canada as the Empire's second centre. The dream of those who have predicted she would become its heart seems less fantastic, now that the Empire takes its way westward. Historians, it may be, may one day discern the first sure sign of our changing times in the unique appearance of the British Crown in person in North America in the summer of 1939.

The experiment was a huge success. From coast to coast, south of the border as well as north of it, loyalty played a gallant part before packed houses. When the show was over it was evident, so far as Canada was concerned, that neither audience nor players would be quite the same again. King George found assurance and his voice. Queen Elizabeth discovered crowds and that she had it.

Canadians realized emotionally what they had learned formally in their history books, that behind the pomp lie the glamorous and glittering traditions of the British Empire. Royalty in a state coach might be an anachronism in the New World, but the subconscious thrives on anachronisms and it is the subconscious, the psychologists say, that governs. Not so much did it appear as what it revealed, the royal tour made evident what had been uncertain: that if Great Britain were dragged into war, Canada would rally to her side.

Canada has rallied to her side, but in a new role. Decentralization of the British Empire has been accelerated, protected by the oceans. Now it is in its second stage. Geography had long made it possible, strategy has now made it desirable.

Logical Centre

Geographically, Canada's position, with one coast bathed by the Atlantic and the other laved by the Pacific, makes her a far more logical shipping centre than the United Kingdom. Her great transcontinental railroad systems and in the St. Lawrence a waterway whose development will allow ocean going freighters to make their way to the head of the Great Lakes, more than a thousand miles inland.

Her transcontinental freight rates are framed to meet the competition of the Panama Canal, so that they are, in reality, water rates.

In peacetime, Britain's twenty best customers are, in the order named: the United States, Canada, Australia, India, Argentina, New Zealand, Germany, South Africa, France, Denmark, Holland, Eire, Russia, Sweden, Belgium, Malaya, Poland, Egypt, Nigeria, and China. Of the total trade done with them, the United States, Canada and Argentina account for 20 per cent, and 50 per cent of it is with countries that could be as well or better served, even in peacetime, from Canadian ports.

In wartime they could be served infinitely better. From Vancouver to Brisbane is only 6,780 miles, as compared with 11,700 from London to Brisbane. Halifax is less than 200 miles farther from Cape Town than London is.

Coal and Iron

England has only coal and iron and a little clay, and her coal mines are deepening. Canada has most of the essentials except cheap coal, and she has the world's cheapest water power to replace that. She is next door to the world's principal supplier of cotton, and far nearer Australia's wool. She has food in abundance and room to spare for the whole of England's population. This, in any event, is the age of electricity and alloys, of plastic and man-made fibres. England's industrial greatness was built on coal and iron, and that foundation is crumbling. You can read its future in the rusting machinery and the rusting men of her Black Country. The workers who make her fine wools could make them in Canada. The moist climate which helps her cotton manufacturers can be simulated by air-conditioning. If men and machinery could be transported, her mass-produced Canadian rooftops, they would find power cheaper and raw materials and food far more accessible even in peacetime and infinitely more so in time of war.

Her English Channel

Strategically, shifting the Empire's centre of gravity to Canada would make the Atlantic the new British Channel. In Britain, industry is more vulnerable to air attack than anywhere else in the world.

In Canada it would be invulnerable. England, as the headquarters of Empire, represents too many eggs in one basket. England is too small, too densely populated, too exposed to potential enemies, thus too vulnerable to attack. Her aircraft factories are difficult to defend against intensive bombing. Her shipbuilding yards are impossible to conceal and therefore exposed to even greater hazards.

Canada is vast, scattered, protected by two oceans. Her coastline is immense, but snow and ice and natural configuration defend it at all but a few points. More important ultimately than these natural defences is the paper protection of the Monroe Doctrine. In Canada, because of the Monroe Doctrine, the British Empire has a base which cannot become subject to serious enemy attack without drawing in the United States.

How is the case with Great Britain? "There will always be an England." Yes, but it is becoming an increasingly uncomfortable place to live in and for 45,000,000 people to live in. The steady shift of the locus of power from the sea to the air is unifying England into an area beyond that of a greater Gibraltar. If the history of Europe is to continue to be punctuated by war, the English people will have to keep 45,000,000 people cannot do that and continue to find life worth living. But as the spearhead of Anglo-Saxondom—and often of a British Empire—safely based overseas on a working alliance with the United States, England could take a new and permanent lease of life.

Cultural Position

The process of retreat to Canada, carried out to its logical conclusion, would leave British culture dominant on this side rather than industrial and commercial outpost. She would have a far better balanced economy. Her population would be large enough to serve as garrison but small enough to grow part of its food, store more of it, and be supplied, even in the face of a submarine blockade, with the rest.

It is difficult to imagine those who have brought Britain to her present pass seeking such a way out of it. But Britain has a Prime Minister whose ancestry bridges the oceans, and in Lord Beaverbrook not only Canada's leading contribution to date to the Battle of Britain but a publicist who has long and eloquently urged his adopted country to renounce Europe for her own Empire. Like Churchill, he preached to ears that were deaf then, but would be only too receptive now. Four years ago Mr. Osbert Sitwell urged a mass migration of his countrymen across the Atlantic and reinforced his argument with the reminder that the Emperor Constantine had saved Roman civilization from destruction at the hands of barbarian enemies for another thousand years when he removed his capital to Byzantium.

Losing Fight

As things are, Britain is fighting a losing fight even if she is winning this war. Nothing but an overwhelming defeat could be more embarrassing to her than a shattering victory. She would not know what to do with the pieces.

The alternatives to a victory are defeat or stalemate followed by a negotiated peace. Defeat would mean not retreat but a disorganized flight across the Atlantic. A negotiated peace in Europe that could be anything but an uneasy peace defies the present wit of Man to conceive. An uneasy peace after a long war in which industry and civilian populations had suffered from intensive air attack would probably convince the average Englishman that he had had about enough of it. Knowing a better life, he would go to it. He alone of Europeans has the chance.

Of late years Britain has seemed to tire of the burden of world leadership and to appear not only willing but eager to shift it to the United States. The duty might be divided. The more closely British and American policies approximate each other the easier to merge the Pax Britannica into a Pax Americana. Canada would welcome it. In so far as she waxed important as the second centre of the British Empire she would and could contribute to it. She would become an asset on the balance sheet of the Monroe Doctrine, whereas she is now a liability.

An English-speaking union may be a consummation far less remote than once appeared. Hitler has set a fashion which other races, for their own protection, are almost compelled to follow. Was it not his great countryman, Bismarck, who said that the greatest political fact of modern times was "the inherited and permanent fact that North America speaks English"? There is an Anglo-American community. There is an Anglo-American community of ideas and interests which not even unpaid war debts and a repudiated League of Nations have been able to dissolve. There is an English-speaking union now and its charter is contained in the carefully framed Neutrality Laws of the United States, the exchange of destroyers against naval bases, the provision of munitions to England and their denial to her enemies, and, finally, in the American-Canadian Defence Board. Perhaps it need never exist in name. A strong Canada which was at once a constituent of the British Empire and an ally of the United States in the Pan-American Union might serve the same ends and excite fewer resentments.

War Effort Inconsistent

Widowed Mother Points Out Case Where Conscription Would Work Hardship

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor Bulletin: We listen to the radio appealing to us all to save, and cut out all unnecessary spending to buy War Saving Certificates, to save on the gasoline, and to enlist. Your country needs you etc. When you listen and look around you one is reminded of the Parable of the Sower.

On one program you hear Canada's stirring appeal to all of us. "We are all in the front line Trenches". Do your bit. Save on the gas, etc. You look out on the county highways, and you see young men plowing up the roads with trucks engaged in work that could, and every other commodity. Young men burning up the supply of gasoline so badly needed for our war effort. Young men tearing up the roads at non-essential jobs, bootlegging on the railways, depleting the railway revenues, and making nothing for themselves other than paying a living.

What a mockery of our all out war effort. Young men that should be answering the call, and at the front. The gas that could be saved so easily for the country's war needs. The railways can willingly and ably handle all this trucking at reasonable rates.

When will it stop?

Conscription

Editor Bulletin: Mr. Weir's broadcast on conscription prompted me to write this letter.

For some years with the help of my son I have managed a half section of farm land.

My son is now 21 and was called up in May. I got this deferred until November so we could harvest the crop. We have been unable to do this owing to bad weather.

We both think four months' training is all right, but will he be free after that? We cannot find out anything definite about this.

I am old and in poor health: if it were not so my son would have enlisted long ago.

WIDOWED MOTHER.

Five Dollar Pension

Editor, Bulletin: A caucus is to be held in Edmonton by the Alberta government on the 15th of October. May we ask all the good citizens who know of the terrible plight the aged pioneers of Alberta are in, to get busy now.

Your M.L.A.'s are now on their way to Edmonton.

It is entirely up to you, Mr. Citizen, if you wish to get behind this movement of a five dollar bonus for the pensioners, is to sit down now and write your M.L.A. and tell him your wish, and do it today.

It has been said that governments are only charitable to themselves. Is the Alberta government an exception?

They raised their own salaries, but have not paid the promised $25 dividend. Can this government allow these aged pioneers, live as no human being should be allowed to live, in want and privation.

The $20.00 pension has now the buying power that $16.00 had before the war.

The governments have done nothing to alleviate the disgraceful condition our oldest citizens find themselves in today.

We, the people are to blame, we elect men to power and expect them to take care of the state and the people. Just why do we allow their duties to be neglected?

Do the people of Alberta wish to see these old timers slowly die of starvation this winter? Many will if something is not done for them.

You know they are fathers and brothers of people just like yourself. Many have boys at the front fighting for you, but their own wives and children have to be taken care of, so the old people are neglected.

We all admire the red coated N.W. Mounted Police, now we are told some of them are existing on the meagre $20 when they get too old to protect you and me.

The leaders of all parties in power both federal and provincial have been contacted by letters, every one who is responsible for the suffering of these pioneers of this country.

All have received from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, members of his cabinet, the premiers, M.P.'s, M.L.A.'s, city councils, some churches, they don't respond well—possibly the ministers of the gospel don't read the newspapers.

Only Mr. Ilsley, the minister of finance, has not replied, he has no time to talk about the aged, he said so—read Hansard.

An article in the press that pensioners could not receive the bonus of five dollars as it would clash with the federal regulations, must have been made by some one who could not multiply twelve by five, being sixty would still leave any lucky pensioner another sixty-five dollars a year he could earn and still receive a pension of $240 a year.

Please don't silence false reports to lead you astray, write to your M.L.A. today. You may be the one that may save many lives, you may see hundreds of letters that will tell you of suffering, want, hunger, and distress. These people are your fellow neighbors, and are one not our brother's keeper. ONE OF THEM.

The Saturday Night Review

Broadcast Saturday, Oct. 11, Over Radio Station CFRN at 8:15 O'Clock

By HAROLD L. WEIR

We have had estimates of Vichy and the Vichy administration from patriots, lawyers, statesmen, journalists, partisans and enemies.

Now there is a new slant on Marshal Petain and his colleagues from another kind of critic—a professional drinking man. I did not know, of course, that the consumption of alcoholic beverages could become a full-time job.

But that's exactly what a correspondent signs himself—"a professional drinker"—so, who am I to doubt his word?

Harold L. Weir

That is a professional drinker writes to me in some indignation about the new liquor laws of unoccupied France which went into effect Wednesday morning.

Beginning Wednesday morning, Vichy ordained a new drinking system for Frenchmen. There will be no more "drink when you like." The sale of alcohol is restricted. For in its great wisdom, Vichy has decided to arrange the business thus:

From eleven o'clock in the morning until one in the afternoon, only such concoctions as Dubonnet, byrrh, etc., may be served.

Then, from one until three, only liqueurs, such as benedictine, chartreuse and cognac, will be available. From six to eight, the dubonnet and byrrh go on tap again, after which the Frenchman may go back to liqueurs.

Hot rum, says the new order, may be served at any hour.

The amazement of my self-styled professional drinker is great.

"No wonder," he writes elegantly, "no wonder these Vichy Frenchmen are cockeyed when they mix byrrh, brandy and hot rum all in a single day. The thing just ain't decent."

This, perhaps, is just as pat a comment on Vichy as anything that has yet been said.

Russia in Danger

Though the fortunes of war continue to ebb and flow, tonight it appears that Russia may be lost.

Hitler has assembled the greatest army ever gathered together in the history of the world and is hurling it towards Moscow.

The feeling in London is grim. Hysterical demands are being made for changes in the government so that those elements which, it is alleged, have prevented a British attack on the continent to relieve the pressure on the Russians, will make way for more active advisers to Mr. Churchill.

The feeling in Edmonton is a bit grim too, in spots. An excited gentleman rang me up on the telephone this morning and urged me to say on this broadcast tonight that Britain is letting Russia down because the British government, as he luridly put it, is "rotten with fascism." He declared that Britain could have saved Russia by sending an expeditionary force to the continent. He wanted me to insist that the British high command take this step at once.

I declined on three grounds:

First, because I am not convinced that the British are fascist, communist, democratic or aristocratic or anything else—but just British.

Secondly, because Mr. Churchill has not asked my advice, now, for several months.

Thirdly, because I am not disposed to try to teach my grandmother how to suck eggs.

Firm and Resolved

Perhaps I am being a trifle facetious about this because I cannot regard the Russian situation as an unmitigated calamity.

In the first place we have no reason to believe that the loss of Moscow or, indeed, the loss of all Russia, would deprive us of the Russian nation as an ally. There is a remote possibility, of course, that if Stalin's armies are driven out of Moscow, which is the heart of the Soviet organization, some political disruption might occur to send Russia in another revolution.

This may happen. It is not likely. We must remember that the Russians have already given evidence of a fighting spirit that will last as that of some other nations did, completely collapse when Hitler goes boo.

The important thing will not be whether or not Russia is lost but whether or not the Russians know it.

Technically, Great Britain was lost on September 3rd, 1939. But no one in Britain seemed to know anything about it. And so the war went on.

Perhaps the Russians might exhibit some of the same stuff.

Self-Reliance

In the second place, I cannot regard the Russian situation as a calamity because it might cause us to relearn our ancient lesson of self-reliance.

There are still people in this country who regard the war as a remote unpleasantness, an inconvenience which will solve itself in the course of time. The attack on Russia gave these people a momentary triumph and added to their numbers.

I can tell you right now that the war will never be won while this state of mind prevails in Canada. If we want to avoid going in chains before Adolf Hitler, we have got to take the war seriously—and that means the supreme effort for every last one of us.

Perhaps the situation in Russia tonight will help to wake us up.

Cosmetics

The busy statisticians of the United States produce a list of figures this week that set American men—and American women too—to wondering.

The result of their computations was briefly this: that American women spent more than eight hundred million dollars last year on cosmetics. Face powder, rouge, lipstick and all the host of devices wherewith women think they beautify themselves cost this colossal sum in twelve short months.

It was not the magnitude of the figure that staggered thoughtful Americans, but the implications.

TO VISIT NORTH

Commissioner McCormick, Ottawa, Boy Scout leader, will visit Grande Prairie on October 15, in the course of a tour of Boy Scout centers in the Peace River country. A public meeting will be held, at which parents and those interested in the work will be present.

Need Felt For New Hospital

GRANDE PRAIRIE—Necessity of an isolation hospital at Grande Prairie has been brought to the attention of the Provincial Health Board by the town council. As there are no facilities for caring for communicable diseases by the Municipal hospital, at present, the town has to provide a building of some sort, whenever a case is brought in.

It was felt that proper hospitalization should be provided for communicable cases, and that this matter should properly belong to the larger hospital division instead of being left to the municipalities.

In reply to a letter from Mayor Lawlor, the deputy minister of health suggested that the town enter into an agreement with the hospital board for the provision of isolation hospital facilities. A committee consisting of Mayor Lawlor, and councillors, J. M. Smart, chairman of finance, and T. Blair, chairman of health, was appointed to interview Dr. McGugan of the Provincial health board, who is expected to visit Grande Prairie in the near future. The matter will then be taken up with the Municipal hospital board.

Ask Minister To "See For Himself"

GRANDE PRAIRIE—Invitation to Hon. W. A. Fallow, provincial minister of public works, to visit Grande Prairie and "see for himself" conditions prevailing on roads throughout the country, was wired this week by the executive of the Board of Trade.

Meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the "absolute necessity" of roads of a more permanent nature for and into the Peace River country, than the dirt highways now made impassable by continued rain.

A resolution was passed, endorsing the suggestion of R. S. Law, president of the United Grain Growers, that a payment be made on an acreage basis to western wheat farmers for increased costs prevailing this year. In the event that this was not granted, the G.P. Board of Trade asked that $1.00 per bushel be paid for wheat at the point of shipment.

A copy of this resolution was sent to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture; J. H. Sissons, M.P. for Peace River, and to United Grain Growers.

Likes Tobacco Right Off Land

FAIRVIEW—Trying her hand at growing tobacco, Mrs. Eddy Van, four miles west of Fairview, was able to produce a dozen dark-green plants, which stood about 20 inches high. The leaves, growing from a round stalk, measured eleven by six inches. She brought a plant into Fairview to show a friend, whose husband took little time in sampling it. When the tobacco grower appeared at her friend's home some days later, she was told that the tobacco was dried a dark-brown color, was of a mild flavor and was asked if she would bring some more to town.

Plane Mill Crew At Timber Limits

RIMBEY—Crew and machinery that has been operating a planing mill at Rimbey during the winter months, has been moved by the owner, J. H. Jones, to his timber limits in the saw-mill country west of Rimbey where they will commence winter logging and sawing operations at once.

A crew of ten men and two cooks, working on a tract of land at the village east limits during the summer and for the past several weeks, in a night and a day shift have kept the work going 24 hours per day. Several temporary buildings were erected and used for bunk houses, stable, and cook-house.

The Jones company is again under contract to the Imperial lumber company for next year's cut-put which will be larger than any previous season. Forest fires of last April and May swept through approximately 25 per cent of the Jones limit. It is estimated that if the fire-killed timber is taken out as early as possible, it can be utilized.

Staggering Hours Will Be Studied

Ottawa's experiment in staggering the hours of work of office and industrial employees will be watched with interest here according to City Commissioner R. J. Gibb, and Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent.

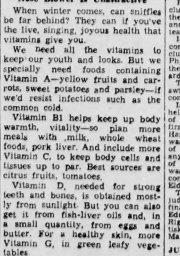

The Ottawa experiment is designed to lighten peak-load traffic periods on the street railway system.

Commissioner Gibb and Supt. Ferrier stated there was no such traffic problem here yet, and if such problem did arise, effective measures will be taken to deal with it.

Vitamins Required For Youthful Health, Looks

Nose Blower Is Unattractive

When winter comes, can sniffles be far behind? They can if you've the live, singing, joyous health that vitamins give you.

We need all the vitamins to keep our youth and looks. But we specially need foods containing Vitamin A—yellow fruits and carrots, sweet potatoes and parsley—if we'd resist infections such as the common cold.

Vitamin B1 helps keep up body warmth, vitality—so plan more meals with milk, whole wheat foods, pork liver. And include more Vitamin C, to keep body cells and tissues up to par. Best sources are citrus fruits, tomatoes.

Vitamin D, needed for strong teeth and bones, is obtained mostly from sunlight. But you can also get it from fish-liver oils and, in a small quantity, from eggs and butter. For a healthy skin, more Vitamin G, in green leafy vegetables.

Such a diet need cost no more than the meals you have now. Plan healthful vitamin-rich menus for yourself and your family!

Our 20-page booklet suggests menus bursting with vitamins, gives "Keep Fit Diet" and a chart showing family content of daily two-day foods. Explains role of vitamins in retaining health energy, looks. Tells 10 ways to preserve vitamins in cooking.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Vitamins to Keep You Fit" to Home Service, The Edmonton Bulletin, 60 Front street West, Toronto Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of the booklet.

Chest Drive Is Now Extended To October 18

The Community Chest campaign has been extended one week to October 18, it was announced Tuesday by H. R. Milner, K.C., president of the board of directors of the Edmonton Community Chest.

Mr. Milner's statement follows in full:

The Community Chest campaign is proceeding steadily and there is every confidence that with the help of all canvassers and the generosity of those who have not get contributions, we shall reach our objective.

The chairmen of the various canvassing divisions have met with Mr. Harvey Harrison, campaign chairman, and unanimously agreed to extend the period of the campaign one week to October 18. This extension of time to canvassers will permit the proper coverage of all calls yet to be made, the complete clearance of those calls for which extra time was necessary, and the recanvass of some cards when donations are inadequate.

COMPLETING CANVASSES

Many business houses are completing internal canvasses among employees and the results of these will be known within a few days. Many branch office contributions are still to be reported and the residential canvass has just begun to produce subscriptions in quantity.

In this campaign, the first Community Chest drive for the city, the returns in many instances have been splendid appreciation of the work of the Chest committee has frequently been expressed and in a very tangible manner.

I would like to point out again the necessity of a proper perspective for the average contributor.

The Chest contribution is for 12 months. It covers the amount usually secured in 28 campaigns and 11 tag days. Many persons who feel that $10 is a generous contribution will be surprised at the insignificance when measured in terms of their usual charitable givings over the longer period. One dollar a month to the Chest is the equivalent of $12 weekly or monthly budget of less than one cent for each of the agencies.

It is important in the future of our city that consideration be given to ordinated social work in this city that this emphasis be appreciated by all.

I have no illusions about the needs of those whom we seek to help through our welfare agencies, and I have no doubts as to the generous measure of response which Edmonton will give to this need.

Calgary, Regina, Vancouver, Saskatoon, Victoria, have demonstrated how effectively the Chest method can be used and have over-subscribed their objectives in previous campaigns.

In this final week I leave the issue in the hands of the canvassers who yet have calls to make, and in the hearts of all Edmontonians who have not given to the Chest, I appeal for their generous response.

For they learned from the same statisticians who produced this incredible fact that such a sum would have paid for ten first class battleships.

Now feminine beauty has played a tremendous part in the world's affairs. Lovely women have more than once changed the course of the hearth's history.

If Cleopatra, for instance, had not been so irresistible, Marc Antony would probably have been Roman emperor and Roman events might have been different.

If Madame du Barry and Madame de Pompadour had not been so fascinating, the grandson of their royal boy friend might not have lost his head.

And then there was the fair Helen whose little affair with the Trojan Paris precipitated the Trojan war which induced the founding of Rome by Trojan survivors and the settlement of Britain, so Geoffrey of Monmouth says, by these same refugees.

Helen was beautiful. She had a face, it is said, that "launched a thousand ships."

But the function of feminine beauty in world affairs appears to have changed. The modern woman, with her eight hundred million dollars' worth of cosmetics, has changed it.

The "face that launched a thousand ships" has been changed to-day into the face that kept a thousand ships from being launched.

That unfortunate incident which was closed down in this city in regard to the proposed exchange, between Britain and Germany, of wounded soldiers, is of no great importance in itself. Germany's wounded will continue to get good care in English hospitals and the British wounded will be treated with equal care in Germany.

But the affair was decidedly illuminating because it served to throw a merciless light on the character and mental processes of the irresistible Nazis.

First of all, Berlin wouldn't hear of any exchange at all. This was several months ago. The Germans turned down proposal after proposal made by the British.

Then they came along with a British plan which they had already rejected and offered it as their own. On this basis the arrangements went ahead. When they got home, however, that they were giving away more prisoners than they were getting, they balked again. And they did it in a very disagreeable way.

Up until nine minutes before the hospital ships were due to sail from Dieppe for Britain the illusion that 1,200 wounded and blinded Britishers would soon be in the arms of their families.

To sustain the suspense, they even broadcast, in English, the names of these 1,200 men.

Then, suddenly, they announced that they wouldn't do business on the basis suggested, that they would only exchange men for men and not group for group as is provided in international law.

So, having aroused the expectations of 1,200 families to a high pitch, these unpleasant people broke the negotiations clean off.

The important thing to remember, in this unfortunate incident is the Germans' flagrant disregard for law.

The matter of the exchange of prisoners is quite specifically and clearly in the Geneva conventions to which the Germans had solemnly set their hands. The procedure is described fully in International law.

But the Germans couldn't do it that way. They had to flout even that poor gesture of humanity.

We can understand a barbarous and savage people repudiating law in a desperate effort to save their own lives. There is something wanton and inherently lawless in such an act designed to do no more than gain a meanness in an ordinary decent deal.

I said the other day, in an article in The Bulletin, that the Germans, like the Japanese, are constitutional aggressors because they have no civilization of their own, but have always lived on the fringes of other people's civilizations.

I should say that they are only fought for one or two reasons fundamentally:

First, to protect a civilization. Or, secondly, to destroy one in envy and hatred.

Thus, I pointed out, aggressor nations are always nations without a civilization of their own.

Well, it seems to me that this mean-spirited action in regard to the exchange of wounded is one of the best illustrations we have had yet of Nazi Germany's lack of civilization.

For basically, the mark of a civilization is not to be found in scientific cleverness, in art or in any cultural or emotional qualities. It is to be found in devotion to law.

The extent of a man's civilization is determined by the manner in which he keeps his word.

Truth was the first law of chivalry. And chivalry is the priceless ingredient of civilization.

We can frequently confuse culture with civilization.

Culture, of course, refines society. It softens and broadens and sweetens human life. But society and humanity cannot be sustained on culture alone.

No decent human society is possible where there is no such thing as an unbroken word, and where there is no such thing as honor.

Culture beautifies human life. Civilization preserves it.

And I say now that even if Germany possessed the greatest scientific genius on earth, which she does not, or even had altar written the finest literature and music on earth, which she has not, she still would be without civilization because she does not know what honor is. She does not know how to keep her word.

Nazi Germany is the true, barbarian, cruel, ruthless, greedy and forsworn.

There is no record, written or unwritten, of barbarism ever permanently defeating civilization.

Somehow and in some time, man's devotion to law, his devotion to truth and his everlasting inward honor emerge, free and flaming, from all the mists and mud that evil men can spread across the earth.

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

TODAY'S expert witness, in the current investigation this column is conducting into ways of improving our football so as to get the maximum spectator thrills out of it, is "Brick" Peebles, as keen and thorough a student of football as you will find in western Canada.

Brick played eight years of football for the Regina Roughriders, coached Regina juniors from 1929 to 1934 and has been officiating throughout the west for some 15 years. He knows what he's talking about.

Like every other official or coach I have yet found, Peebles is not satisfied with the type of football that the new C.R.U. rules, adopted by the west this season, are giving. He agrees that this playing code puts too much of a handicap on the offensive—that it gives all the advantage to the defensive team.

However Brick's solution is extremely simple and a very interesting one. He contends that the only change needed in the present C.R.U. code is to permit the backfield men to block right up to five yards past the line of scrimmage—the distance to which only men on the line of scrimmage are now permitted to block. Backfielders are now permitted to block only to one yard in advance of the line of scrimmage.

Peebles feels certain that with this amendment the game would immediately open up the way the fans want it to. He points out that it is now rare for a ball carrier to make any distance around the end of the line for he gets no blocking protection and the opposing backfielders are waiting en masse to smear him. Blocking by the backfield would automatically open up a series of new plays that are impossible now.

Oppose 10-Yard Blocking

BRICK never was a supporter of the old Western Conference rule that gave 10 yards of interference from the line of scrimmage. He argues that this produced a game in which there was too much emphasis on power, a game in which the ball carriers were shot through holes in the line time after time with the fans rarely seeing anything except a mass of men seething and straining for a few seconds.

It is not so much the rules as the coaches that are to blame for boring football, Peebles contends. He is not pointing a finger at any one in particular—just discussing a general situation with a view to improving it.

"Our Western Conference coaches have been mostly men who learned their football in the United States and they have tried to adapt the American game to our rules instead of trying to devise a type of play that would make the most of our rules," Peebles argues with a lot of justification.

"My objection to introducing four downs into our game is that it would make for even more power plays. With four downs to go 10 yards, the quarter will play safe on line plunges, figuring it should be a cinch to average only two and half yards every time a ball carrier hits the line. Why should he take a chance on a sensational angle-dazzle play in which he may lose possession of the ball when only a phenomenal opposing line can prevent him from making first downs safely on short plunges?"

Here's a Concrete Example

AS an example of what he means by not making the most of our existing rules, Brick points to the question of whether a punt receiver should be given protection by blockers. The rules now say that tacklers cannot come within five yards of a man waiting for a punt—until of course it is in his hands.

"Have you ever seen another backfielder waiting near a punt receiver to take a lateral from him and so get away on a thrilling runback?" demanded Mr. Peebles. "I've never seen it yet. Right there is an example of a rule we could revise a little and get much more thrilling game than the U. S. code. In American football the punt receiver is protected by blockers and he simply runs the ball back. Under our rules, if fully utilized, the fans would see a lateral pass and then a run-back—two thrills for the single one offered by the U. S. game.

"You simply can't get thrilling football by rules alone. Players must develop a high degree of skill the same as in any game that draws people to watch it. After all, it is the skill that provides the thrills—skilful running, passing, ball handling and blocking—that is the stuff that holds the appeal of football. If players can't throw and catch passes, if they can't twist through a broken field and the line can neither hold nor make a hole in the other line, how can rules make up for this lack of ability?"

Personally I'm inclined to think that Brick has put his finger on one of the weak spots of our football. Coaches are inclined to think only in terms of winning, not in terms of giving the fans as thrilling a game as possible. They are afraid to take chances and seldom open up except perhaps in the last quarter when they are hopelessly beaten.

This criticism may have been uppermost in the minds of those who drew up our present C.R.U. code. They may have felt that by giving the defence a heavy advantage, they would force the team in possession of the ball to resort to spectacular play. However it seems generally agreed that they over-played their hand in favor of the defence and that a closer balance between offensive and defensive power is now urgently needed.

Last Minute Decides Title

Calgary Tornadoes Take Southern Gridiron Honors

CALGARY, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Over 3,000 wildly excited fans saw the Calgary Junior Football League championship decided during the last minute of play in the second of a best of two games, total point series at the stadium Monday with West End Tornadoes returning a kick and dribbling and running the ball almost the length of the field to secure an 18-11 victory and clinch the 1941 title by a margin of 24-18. Blizzards won the first game 7-6.

It was a story book finish to one of the most thrilling and hardest fought grid contests ever played in this city. When the timekeeper raised the red flag on the side line signalling but one minute left to play, Blizzards, needing but one point to tie the series and force extra time or even an extra game, failed on their third successive attempted placement kick for a field goal. Quarter-back Ken Fraser gambled for the three points, which would have given Blizzards victory as well as the championship.

However, the third placement kick was blocked and when returned by David Turner it glanced off an opposing player and "Woodie" Woodlock dribbled the ball at least 60 yards with Jack Holdsworth outdistancing all others to pick it up and run over unmolested for a touchdown.

Alfie Robertson Cops Three Races Jamaica Monday

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Alfred Robertson, the Scottish jockey, rode three winners and was up on a second-place finisher in the first four races at Jamaica Monday but couldn't add another victor in the remaining three events.

Robertson, who rode six winners on one program last week, won with Tower Maid, a $15.90 for $2 mount, in the opening race, was second in the next and came through with Down Six in the third, which paid $6.30 for a $2.00 bet. He came back at once with Humor, paying $12.10, $8.00 and $6.30, in the fourth.

A holiday crowd of 28,150 saw Robertson's work and watched the Maplecrest Farm's Wise Niece win the Correction Handicap, a six-furlong test for fillies and mares.

Wise Niece was coupled with Lady Waterloo in the betting and paid $24.90 after beating Ogden Phipps' Devil Girl by a neck in 1:12 flat. Third money went to Herbert M. Woolf's Unerring.

Kerleroux Again Cops Annual Race For Herald Trophy

CALGARY, Oct. 14. — (CP) — Baptiste Kerleroux, French-Canadian athlete of Scandia, Alta., made it two straight in the annual Herald Road race Monday, when he repeated his 1940 victory, finishing a full two city blocks ahead of George E. Robinson, of Calgary.

Keeping well up among the pacemakers for nearly half the distance, Kerleroux then went to the front to win as he pleased despite the fact that he lost sight of the course suffering from a stitch in his side. His time: 34:15 1-5, while 10 seconds faster than his effort a year ago, was still far behind the record of 32:39 2-5 set by Hartington Anderson in 1932.

Robinson finishing second was one minute and three seconds behind the winner. Thousands of spectators lined the course.

William D. Cameron, of Carbon, Alta., just managed to nose out Bob Rosser, a Calgary youth, for third place.

The event attracted an entry of 49 athletes. Of this number 30 finished the course, 13 fell out and six did not start.

City Champs Roll Smoothly In Exhibition

CARRYING more experience and more offensive weapons, Coach Tommy Hays' Maple Leafs, Edmonton Junior League champions, defeated Notre Dame Hounds 18-5 before a crowd estimated at approximately 12,000 during the Thanksgiving Day show of No. 3 Manning Pool of the Royal Canadian Air Force at the Exhibition Grounds here.

The boys from the aggressive little college at Wilcox, Saskatchewan, put up a stirring battle all the way but they couldn't solve the problem presented by the Edmonton champions.

EARLY LEAD

Play had been underway only a few minutes when the Maple Leafs jumped into a 6-0 lead. Kiesko took a nice forward pass from Pringle to race across the goal line for a touchdown, after an advance of 30 yards. The touchdown was converted.

Notre Dame struck back hard, but was unable to develop a scoring thrust. Just before the period ended, McAuley made it 7-0 for the Leafs when he kicked to touch in goal.

In the second quarter, the Hounds smashed their way to a touchdown with a series of fine plunges that carried them right down the field.

Frank Smith was the lad who at last went over for the Hounds' first touchdown and only score of the game. The convert attempt failed.

TWO TOUCHDOWNS

The third period brought two touchdowns for the Maple Leafs. Ken McAuley covered some 20 yards on a quarterback sneak for the first of these major scores, while Barclay dashed around one end of the Notre Dame line for the other one. Smitten converted the first touch and the attempt on the other failed.

There was no scoring in the final frame.

"Pep" Moon was the referee in charge, Doug Foster was the umpire and John Easton was head linesman.

Following are the lineups:

Notre Dame: Chuck McCullough, Frank Germann, Frank Smith, Melvin "Hank" Clark, Al Hardie, Garnet Love, Rev. McCusker, Carl Lenard, Don McGregor, Jim Cheyne, McCann, Guy "Killer" Ludgale, Jim Elliott, Norm Brown, Goldie North, M. Hardie, Glasser, Warwick, Thornton.

Boxla Series Evened Up

Richmond Farmers Swamp St. Catharines In Second Game

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 14.—(CP)—Prospects of the Mann Cup, Dominion lacrosse championship trophy, again returning to the Pacific Coast were a bit brighter today following the 21-10 trouncing Richmond Farmers handed the St. Catharines Athletics here last night in the second game of the best-of-five playoff series.

Wilf Hannon, now with the air force, who with Ian Lorimer answered coach Eddie Gilmore's call for help, made his trip across the Dominion pay dividends by slamming in five goals and assisting in four others. Johnny Smith was another Richmond sharpshooter with five goals.

The third game will be played in Vancouver Wednesday night and the teams will then return here for the fourth game next Friday night.

St. Catharines, eastern Canadian champions who are shooting for their third Dominion championship, were on the losing end from the start last night. They ended the first quarter with a two-goal deficit at 3-1, then managed to tie the score at four all midway through the second frame, but from there on the farmers continued to forge ahead.

St. Kitts' defeat was due in part to the number of minutes the easterners spent in the penalty box, although 10 of the Richmond counters came in the third quarter which was comparatively free of rough play with only minor sentences passed.

The Farmers battered Goalie Bill Whitaker in the St. Catharines' net unmercifully from midway through the second quarter until the final frame, netting 14 goals without a reply.

Schrader Scores Lone Touchdown

SASKATOON, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Capitalizing on a backfield fumble for their winning touchdown, the University of Alberta Golden Bears defeated the University of Saskatchewan Huskies 6-1 at Griffith's stadium here Monday before a reunion day crowd of more than 3,000 fans.

The Huskies won the first game of the four-game series for the western inter-collegiate championship at Edmonton on October 6 by a 16-2 score. Third game will be played at Edmonton on October 18 and the fourth here on October 25.

All scoring yesterday was in the third quarter. Early in the period, Bob Porter, Saskatchewan backfielder, fumbled the ball on a poor snap from his centre and Blanch recovered for the Albertans on the Huskies' 10-yard line.

On the first play, Bob Schrader streaked through the centre of the green and white line for a touchdown which Mackay converted from placement. The Huskies marked up their lone tally late in the quarter when McFadyen rouged Metcalfe on one of Porter's long kicks.

THRILLING FINISH

Most of the excitement in the game was packed into last minutes of play when the home club uncovered a desperate aerial attack in a vain attempt to turn defeat into victory. They completed three forward passes to carry the ball to the Alberta five yard line but were unable to plunge it across on the last play of the game.

The Albertans, playing with more drive than their opponents, had the better of the play for the first three quarters as they moved the yardstick 11 times to Saskatchewan's five. The Huskies made their best gains, both on the ground and through the air, in the final period they made seven first downs to the Bears three.

Alberta completed two forward passes out of six attempts and intercepted one Saskatchewan pass. The home club completed six passes out of 11 attempts. The winners were guilty of three fumbles to the loser's four. Saskatchewan grew two yardage penalties to Alberta's two.

Schrader was the most consistent ground gainer for the winners with Freeze, although closely watched, next in line. Although guilty of the Alberta fumble, Porter was the best man on the field for the losers with Probert and Harris also turning in useful games.

LINEUPS

Alberta — Flying wing, Freeze; halves, Grisdale, Schrader, Mackay; quarter, Johnson; centre, Lambert; inside, Follett, D'Appolonia; middles, Wilson, Arendt; ends, Arnold, Ulrich. Calgarian Helps Defeat Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14. — (CP) — Charlie Harrison, former star with the disbanded Calgary Bronks football team, was the big boise again here Saturday when the Royal Canadian Air Force squad defeated University of Manitoba 12-6 in a City Senior football contest.

In the first quarter, Harrison passed to Cpl. Weston, who raced for a touchdown which Harrison, coach of the Air Force team, converted from placement. In the third period, Dave Greenberg was rouged after taking Harrison's punt behind the University goal line.

After Greenberg scored a converted major score in the final quarter, Harrison intercepted a student pass, raced to the university five, then went over for a touchdown on the next play. He missed the convert kick.

Argonauts Trim Montrealers 24-3 For Three In Row

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Toronto Argos staged the greatest scoring spree of the Eastern Rugby Football Union when they overwhelmed Montreal Bulldogs 24-3 here Saturday. The victory was the Scullers' third straight and consolidated their grip on the league leadership.

For three quarters the game was a close-knit affair. Argos set up a six-point lead on a converted touchdown in the first quarter and Montreal whittled the margin to three singles in the second, third and at the start of the fourth quarter.

The Bulldogs then fell apart and Argos rushed over three more touchdowns, two by Annis Stukus, and third by Jakubowski.

BEACHES LOSE TO OTTAWA RIDERS

LANSDOWNE PARK, Ottawa, Oct. 14 — (CP) — Ottawa Rough-Riders poured their ground power at Toronto Balmy Beach Sunday and marked up their second victory of the Eastern Rugby Football season 13-1.

The victory gave Riders sole possession of second place in the union behind Toronto Argonauts.

The Easter Canada champions allowed the Beaches a single point the first quarter—the only score of that session—and from then on turned back the Toronto outfit every time they threatened.

Sammy Swarb's kicking against his former teammates was the greatest weapon the Beaches had to offer. It was responsible for their single point, a touch in goal made in the first quarter with the wind in Beaches favor.

HAMILTON HANGS UP THIRD STRAIGHT

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Three smashing drives paid off with a touchdown and two field goals for Hamilton Wildcats Monday as they drove past Toronto Indians 12-8 to their third straight Ontario Rugby Football Union victory.

Before a film crowd of 2,000, the Indians hung on against the highly-favored Wildcats for all but the last few minutes and at half led 7-6 by virtue of a field goal kicked on an extra play awarded because Wildcats were penalized on the last play of the first half.

Al. Lenard kicked two placements in the second half.

TORONTO INDIANS DEFEAT PANTHERS

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 14—(CP)—Toronto Indians took over second place in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union Saturday, setting the stage for their Thanksgiving Day clash against the leading Hamilton Wildcats, by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers 19-7.

Boxla Change

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14.—(CP)—The Canadian Lacrosse Association in annual session here, Monday approved one new rule and general clarification of plays and players rules were discussed.

The new rule adopted provides for a six-foot circle 10 feet from each corner of the floor, so that when the last play of play in any corner it will be faced off from inside the circle.

The meeting will continue today when officers will be elected.

High Schools Get Help

Basketeers Puzzle Over Problem Of Playoff Costs

CALGARY, Oct. 14—(CP)—Grant Woolley of Magrath, was unanimously re-elected president of the Alberta Amateur Basketball Association at the annual meeting here Saturday. Clare Hollingsworth of Edmonton was returned as vice-president and Jay Hamilton of Magrath as secretary-treasurer.

J. Percy Page of Edmonton was named honorary president. District organizers re-elected were Jack Morgan of Edmonton for the Northern Alberta district and Charles Cheesman of Edmonton as organizer for Central Alberta and Mr. Watts was elected in his place.

Among important subjects reviewed by delegates was the promotion of boys' high school basketball and after a lengthy discussion a motion was passed stating that a sum of money would be set aside for the promotion of boys' high school basketball in Alberta this season.

SEEK INTER-CHANGE

An official of the association said the idea in setting aside this money was to make possible an interchange of games between teams in the south, central and northern districts. There has been no active participation of boys' teams in Edmonton or Calgary for several years.

Delegates also endorsed a motion with regard to punishing players who become unruly in games and inserted wording into the constitution which states that "if a player is removed from a game by a disqualifying foul, flagrant abuse to the official or dirty play that does cause of injury" he will be automatically suspended for the next game. The rule applies in both league and playoff matches but only in games where an official has been appointed by a representative of the association.

Delegates decided to accompany to the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association that the dominion body: (1) put playoff dates two to four weeks earlier and (2) finance the complete playdowns or at least give some financial assistance to the dominion playdowns.

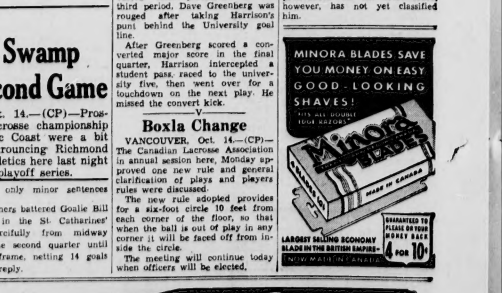

RAYMOND JACKS LOSE

The recommendation was made at the request of Raymond delegate who said the Raymond Union Jacks, senior Alberta champions for the past few years, had too heavy a financial burden each year in bringing teams from other provinces to Raymond for the inter-provincial playdowns and last year lost heavily by having to pay the expenses of Winnipeg St. Andrews.

The Alberta association also decided to suggest to the council of Rene Cyr and Angelo Debacco that all senior clubs in Canada affiliated with the dominion body stage one exhibition game each in the coming season the proceeds of which would go to finance the dominion playdowns.

A representative of the Royal Canadian Air Force at the meeting said the R.C.A.F. at Calgary would have a seven-league intermediate league between members of the force and the winner would play the champions of the Calgary men's intermediate civilian league for the central district championship. The winner then continues on to eventually emerge provincial champions.

More than $2,900 worth of gold flakes were recovered from the sands of San Francisco beach by beachcombers in a single year.

Bill Cunningham's Column

DiMaggio and Wyatt Stage Reconciliation

MILLIONS of radiots, readers, and the Brooklyn ball yards capacity of customers know there was almost a fist fight in the last World Series game. Exactly a dozen people, all ball players except one newspaper man, know there was a very pretty reconciliation about half an hour later.

It was coincidental, the way it came about, too.

Joe DiMaggio, the eminent San Francisco restaurateur, who almost, but not quite, became embroiled with Brooklyn's Mr. Whitlow Wyatt, was just saying he was a little ashamed of himself for having lost his temper twice in the Series. He didn't say it just that way, but that seemed to be part of what he was driving at.

The scene was the Yankee clubhouse and all the fast dressers and guys with places to go had dived through the showers and had long since departed. The whooping and hustling and hallooing was over. The scribes who had to make edditions were long since out.

There was almost catastrophal calm in the place, and in leisurely fashion, as if they really haled to see it all over for the year, Tommy Henrich, Buddy Rosar, Ernie Bonham, who'd just pitched the victory, Johnny Murphy, and Ailey Donald preceded unhurriedly with their dressing on one side of the room. Joe DiMaggio, Frank Crosetti and the three coaches, Art Fletcher, Earl Combs and Johnny Schulize were on the other.

The newspaper man was talking with Joe McCarthy, who had been the last to prepare for a shower. The veteran Yankee manager was speaking of Red Rolfe.

"... he was playing on his nerve," Marse Joe said of the former Dartmouth College captain. "I knew he wasn't right. He hasn't been for some time. After we won the pennant in Boston, he went to the Massachusetts General Hospital for a checkup and laid off for two weeks, you know.

WAS UNDERWEIGHT

"Of course he was underweight," McCarthy continued. "He was weak and drawn. But he wanted to play. He asked me to let him. I knew he could be depended upon although I knew he didn't have a thing out there but heart. And look at that play he made in the first game! (Red's catch of Jimmy Wasdell's foul and subsequent throw to third to get Pee Wee Reese, who was trying to advance a base on a sneak.) I can't recall a better one in the Series. That's the old dependability. Red's always there when you need him. I'll take nine Red Rolfes on my team any days."

Here the newspaper man asked him what about that early season story that Rolfe would be traded.

"I don't know how that story started," said McCarthy. (The story said this was Rolfe's last year with the Yankees.) I didn't have anything to do with it. But that's the one sad thing about baseball—this business of parting with players you've known and loved for years. I tell you now that, long before it came, I dreaded the day when Lou Gehrig would have to play his last game."

His voice broke and the tears came swimming to his eyes, but he went on after a moment. "There are other days, too, I never want to see come. When Bill Dickey and Red Rolfe and, perhaps, some others on this ball club have to stop playing for me . . . but let's talk of happier things. This is one of my happiest days. Let's don't talk of the future right now."

OBVIOUSLY DISAPPOINTED

Joe moved on toward the showers and the other Joe, DiMaggio, a little glumly it seemed, responded to a few general questions. He was obviously disappointed in his Series showing.

"I did things I don't ordinarily do," he was saying. "I lost my temper a couple of times, for one thing, and that's not like me. I think I may have been trying too hard at bat, and that Brooklyn background seemed to bother me more every time I looked at it."

At just this juncture, the door swung open and in stepped Whit Wyatt, the big Dodger pitcher Joe'd had his trouble with, obviously to congratulate what was left of the team that had beaten him.

"Hello, Whit," said DiMaggio, smiling and extending his hand.

"Hi, Joe," grinned Wyatt as he clasped the centerfielder's big duke. "I hope you have a piece of winner, Joe." Wyatt continued.

"Thanks, Whit," said Joe, "and the same to you."

Over the mantelpiece in the field house of a famous college, deeply carved into the stone is the following legend, "Strife Forgotten; Friendships Made".

That's the true slogan of sport. Here was an exemplification.

I thought maybe you'd like to know.

Elbow Operation May Mean Harder's Return To Mound

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Mel Harder, Cleveland pitching ace, filed his pitching arm for the first time since a piece of loose bone was removed from his right elbow and found the scrape was gone from the joint.

On that arm depends the 32-year-old right hander's comeback in baseball, or retirement.

Unconditionally released by Cleveland Indians several weeks ago, Harder underwent an operation Sept. 20 on the arm that had bothered him for two years. Once a 20-game winner, he pitched only 61 2-3 innings in the season just ended and was credited with five victories against four defeats.

Mel doesn't know yet how good the arm will be. "But I think I'll be able to throw overhand again instead of sidearm," he said. "One difference is going to be a mental change. Now that this chunk of bone is removed, my confidence is rolling right back."

Early Lead Gives Burman Decision

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14. — (AP) — Clarence (Red) Burman, of Baltimore, seeking to stage a fistic comeback, carried out a 6-hour split decision over Buddy Walker, of Columbus, O., last night in a 12-round bout.

Burman, weighing 188, led in the early rounds with some telling infighting and punishing blows to the kidneys that allowed Walker to tire.

The Columbus negro, weighing 193½, began staying out of range with telling left jabs to Burman's face in the eighth round and battled the Baltimore boy on better than even terms in the closing stages.

There were no knockdowns.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—In case you're still worried because your favorite football team lost Saturday, let me tell you the guy whose big problem is when the weather will turn cold enough to start the ducks flying south . . . Says a report from Down Delaware way, where the season opens Thursday, says it's been so hot there that shooters will be afraid to try for the high fliers for fear they might spoil on the way down . . . Joe Louis is to be examined today to see if he's fit to fight in the Army . . . Wouldn't it be simpler just to ask Lou Nova?

Today's guest star.

Tom Sweeney, Worcester (Mass) Evening Gazette: "Horses are horses, for all that. . . Run 'em at lovely Tropical Park or quaint Washington or even Pimlico Park, and they have a tendency to reveal an immoderate passion for rubbing not of the money, straight, place or show."

Herb Kopf (Manhattan College coach): "When I'm shouting a team I spend a lot of time watching the defence of the club it's playing. Because if they're stopping then we want to know how they do it."

The football Dodgers have some "discords" too . . . Five guys with musical instruments trailed them out to Milwaukee Sunday, but didn't see much to toot about . . . George Lewis, son of Herb Lewis, the old Detroit hockey star, is playing halfback in Indiana-Polish high school football . . . Sacramento is just finding out that Tiny Bonds, the world series hero, is practically a stranger in his own home town . . . But a guy who has six brothers and six sisters, all older than himself, isn't likely to go out looking for publicity.

The St. Paul hockey club has signed up Baptiste Pusie, who has fought his way out of two leagues in two seasons . . . Ohio Wesleyan gridders have permission to grow whiskers for the college's founder's day, homecoming and centennial celebrations next month . . . Instead of being "Battling Bishops" they'll be Bearded Bishops.

TWO-WAY TIE IN WESTERN CONFERENCE
Bombers Lose To Regina; Win At Coast

Believe It Or Not— —By Robt. Ripley

Stanford Takes First Drubbing Of Grid Season

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Stanford's Indians, Rose Bowl champions and heavy favorites to make it three successive Pacific Coast conference crown, came to the end of the undefeated trail Saturday along with Tulane's mighty green wave and a host of other major powers in a series of spectacular upsets all along the way in United States college football.

Stanford fell 10-0 before Oregon state in a tight battle at Corvallis, breaking the Indians' winning streak of 12 successive victories—nine during the regular season a year ago, a Rose Bowl conquest of Nebraska, and triumphs in their first two engagements this season.

Tulane hailed as the southeastern conference's greatest power after its victories over Boston College and Auburn, came a cropper at Houston at the hands of Rice, 10-9, in a sensational duel. Bob Brumley scored all of Rice's points in this major upset.

FIRST DEFEATS

Those were the main victims of the day but the list of schools suffering their first defeats was a long one—Colgate, Princeton, Holy Cross, Yale, Illinois, Marquette, Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, to mention a few.

There was no stopping such powerful arrays, however, as Minnesota, Navy, Fordham, Penn, Duke, Michigan, Texas, North Western and Notre Dame.

Minnesota, paced by Bill Daley and Bruce Smith, hammered Illinois into submission 34-6, while Michigan's Wolverines, again led by Sophomore Tom Kuzma trounced Pitt, 40-0.

Northwestern crushed Wisconsin, 41-14. Notre Dame drove to a 20-0 triumph over Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

LONGHORNS CLICK

Texas' Longhorns, touted as almost certain winners of the Southwest Conference race, brushed Oklahoma aside 40-7, with Jack Crain getting all the fun. The pair pace for a sensational day for the Southwest Conference as a whole for Rice whipped Tulane 10-9, Texas A. and M. ran wild for the second half to rout New York University, 40-7, Texas Christian collected Indiana 20-14 and Southern Methodist spilled Amos Alonzo Stagge's college of the Pacific eleven, 34-0. In the lone conference tussle left, Baylor's Bears stopped Arkansas, 20-7.

Fordham had to come from behind to halt North Carolina, 20-14, with Steve Filipowicz the mainspring of the Ram's attack. Fullback Bert Stiff paced Penn's Quakers to a 28-13 conquest of Yale whose second-rally made the score respectable but left no doubt as to which was the better team.

Navy used reserves mainly in routing Lafayette, 44-2.

BLOCKED KICK

A kick blocked late in the fourth quarter cost Syracuse its perfect record as Syracuse won out, 6-0, but Colgate was soundly outplayed in the late stages by Dartmouth's surprisingly powerful Indians, 18-6. Nor did Princeton have any chance with Columbia's Lions, 21-0.

Carnell won 7-0 over Harvard.

Boston College's Eagles succumbed to Clemson's Tigers, southern conference champions, 26-13. Army had its hands full in handling Virginia Military, 27-20.

Hockey Camps Continue Activity
Eight Chicago Black Hawks Fail To Show For Training

HIBBING, Minn., Oct. 14. — (AP) — Eight players scheduled to take fall training with the Chicago Black Hawks here still are absent from the camp, officials of the National Hockey League club reported today.

Several of the absentees are being held at the International border awaiting sanction of Canadian military authorities or passport authority from division-al boards under the dominion's national war services act.

Still at the border is Alex Kaleta, of Lethbridge, Alta., who is waiting for permission to enter the United States from military officials in Canada. (Robert English, assistant registrar of the Alberta War Services Board, said at Edmonton Oct. 6 that Kaleta had been granted passport authority by the board.)

Also held at the border are Johnny Chad, veteran Hawk wingman from Prince Albert, Sask., and three rookies, Paul Platz and George Johnson, of Winnipeg and Roy Huwkey, Toronto. It was not expected by Hawk officials that these four would be able to obtain passport authority to enter the United States.

Another player who has yet to report, Dave MacKay, of Edmonton, said previously he would be unable to go to the United States this season because the Alberta board had rejected his application for passport authority. It was hoped at the Hawk camp, however, that MacKay would yet obtain permission to cross the border.

The two other puckmen unreported are Cull Dahlstrom, centre, player, and defenceman Earl Seibert. The Hawk management has received no word from Dahlstrom while Seibert is expected to arrive by plane today after getting final U.S. citizenship papers.

PATRICK WARNS RANGER VETERANS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14. — (CP) — Manager Lester Patrick Monday night served notice on his New York Rangers that no veteran member of the National Hockey League club will be given a contract this fall on past performances.

"No Ranger veteran is certain of his job," said the Ranger boss after 10 of the club's regulars and six promising rookies spent an hour on the ice at the amphitheatre here. Monday's skating practice was the first time players attending the Rangers' training camp here had been on the ice this fall.

ALL POSITIONS OPEN

"Every position on the team is open, and players will need more than past reputations to earn berths," added Patrick.

The rookies who wheeled around the ice with the veterans were forwards Angus Beaudry, Cameron and Grant Warwick, who last year toiled Regina Rangers win the Allan Cup, Norm Burns who played with Washington Eagles of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League last year, and Norm Tustin, formerly of Minneapolis Millers of the professional Association.

Also on the ice with the regulars were Bill Juzda who held down a defence position for the Philadelphia Ramblers before the American Hockey League Club disbanded, and Quincy (Buck) Kelly, candidate for the Ranger goalie job from which Dave Kerr retired. Kelly played with Tulsa Oilers in the American Association last winter.

GOOD CROP ROOKIES

Patrick considers his present crop of rookies one of the finest he has yet taken into the Rangers' fall training camp. The regulars will have a real battle on their hands beating out the "kids," said Patrick.

All the Ranger regulars have reported at camp headquarters except Captain Art Coulter, rugged defence star. No word has been received at the camp from Coulter.

The regulars who have reported are forwards Lynn Patrick, Phil Watson, Neil and Mac Colville, Bryan Hextell, Clint Smith, Alex Shibicky and Alf Pike and defenceman Ott Heller.

DOUG LEWIS SCORES PORT ARTHUR GAME

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Hockey hopefuls attending the puck schools operated here by New York Americans of the National Hockey League and Springfield Indians of the American League gained a 3-4 victory here Monday over Port Arthur's senior Bearcats.

The win gave the hockey students a 2-1 break in exhibition games with Lakehead Senior amateur talent. Last Thursday Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians were beaten 5-1 by the Bearcats while Fort William Hurricanes squeezed out a 4-3 triumph over Red Dutton's American tryouts.

The hockey goals were scored by Gurth Bulk, member of the Regina Rangers when they won the Allan Cup last spring, Doug Lewis from the Edmonton Athletic Club Juniors, Harry Watson, Saskatoon Quaker junior star who recently signed a contract with Americans, Billy Woodward and Ken Ullyot, also with the Quakers last winter. Albert Kelly scored three of the Port Arthur goals while Don Gordon got the other.

Dutton's amateur school is scheduled to break up today while Shore's pupils already have been dispersed.

The Americans' manager announced signing of three more of his team's regulars but declined to give their names. Dutton already had signed five regulars as well as Watson and Jack McPherson, of Edmonton Athletic club juniors.

Indians and Americans are scheduled to meet in an exhibition game here next Saturday.

CHING JOHNSON HAS OWN TROUBLES

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Oct. 14—(CP) — While putting his team through leisurely pre-season practice here Monday at the Olympic arena, Ching Johnson, coach of Washington Ulines, expressed the belief that more of his American Hockey League team would reach this resort within a few days.

How many of the squad, detained at the Canadian border by passport regulations, would be in this detachment Johnson had no knowledge. But he said it would be enough to begin skirmish and scrimmage practice.

At present he has only nine members of the club here with him

Bombers Win At Coast Galloping Ghost Appears In Rain

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers rolled over Vancouver Grizzlies 17-0 here Monday in the Manitobans' first appearance here in the Western Interprovincial Football Conference schedule. The game was played in intermittent rain on a soggy field. The teams meet again here Wednesday night.

The Bombers showed little signs of road-weariness or of the 9-0 beating they absorbed at the hands of Roughriders at Regina Saturday. Despite the slippery field and ball, they fumbled but once against six attempts of the Grizzlies.

The big blue team from Winnipeg—kings of Western Canadian football for the past few years—functioned like a well-oiled machine behind the miraculous field running of Fleet Fritzie Hanson and the play-making of big Art Stevenson.

AERIAL ATTACK

Grizzlies, experiencing their first year in the western Interprovincial football union, were caught flat-footed at the start when Bombers began an aerial drive that ended in a Winnipeg touchdown with Hanson carrying the ball when the game was less than four minutes old. Ches McCance converted.

Stevenson added two deadline kicks in the second quarter and McCance kicked a field goal in the third period. The Bombers scored three other points on a rouge in the third quarter and a second touchdown by big Wayne Sheley which went unconverted late in the final quarter.

Sparked as usual by Fleet Fritzie Hanson, the little 155-pound "Galloping Ghost" and big Art Stevenson, Bombers rolled through and over Grizzlies almost at will.

SURPRISE TO FANS

Ground power of the Bombers amazed the 2,000 fans who sat through the rain to see the Winnipeggers in action for the first time here. They made 135 yards rushing against 51 for Grizzlies and completed 5 completed passes out of seven attempted were good for 63 yards against 3 completed passes in 10 tries by the Vancouver squad which went for 48 yards.

The record also showed the Bombers made six first downs, compared with four for the Grizzlies.

ROUGHIES FINALLY HALT MANITOBANS

REGINA, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Masters of the air in a bitter football duel, Regina Roughriders crushed Winnipeg Blue Bombers 9-0 here Saturday afternoon. The teams now share possession of top place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union standings, the Bombers having beaten Vancouver 17-0 yesterday.

Regina now has eight points for four victories against two defeats while Bombers have eight points for four wins and one defeat.

Held scoreless in the first quarter, Riders chalked up two points in the second 15 minutes on deadline kicks by Norm Geller and Toar Springstein. There was no score in the third period but Riders swept to a greater lead in the last quarter on a touchdown by Dan Caparaz and two rouges, both by Regina's star halfback, Fritz Hanson.

CROWD LIKED IT

Over 3,000 spectators roared approval as Riders handed Bombers their first defeat in league play this season. It was a decisive triumph with Winnipeg making one spectacular bid in the third quarter, then fading as Regina regained command to shove across the fourth quarter touchdown that ended all arguments.

Trying to get within scoring range the Winnipeg club fired 14 passes, completed only one for a 10-yard gain late in the game. Regina intercepted five and it was one of these that led up to the only touchdown as starry Ken Charlton picked off Art Stevenson's toss and ran to the Winnipeg 25-yard line. Stocky Dan Caparaz took over from there, passing to Bob Waler for one first down and plunging for another to the four-yard line. He went over standing up on a play around right end on the next play.

That blow finished Bombers and Hanson was rouged twice in quick succession after that as the inspired Regina youngsters made victory doubly sure.

BOMBERS START

In the third quarter as Bombers began to roll, Regina had to send in Coach Dean Griffing and Assistant Coach Bob Waler to bolster the march. Stevenson and Hanson, who did all Winnipeg's ball carrying, first got within 40 yards of the goal here for an attempted placement by Ches McCance, but the ball sailed wide and short.

Bombers had to start all over again after pouncing on Geller's short kick 36 yards from the Regina line. Hanson earned a first down 19 yards out and it was then that Walker broke into the game and emerged a hero. He went in at outside wing in an attempt to break up a tricky reverse play by Hanson and immediately hauled down Fritzy for no gain. That forced Bombers to gamble on a lateral pass play on third down and Stevenson's toss to Hanson was wide. Fritzy was finally nailed 30 yards out and Regina took possession.

TEMPERS FLARE

Feeling ran high throughout and three players were thrown out of the game. Benny Hatskin came out in the second quarter after a row in front of the Regina bench and Williams and Les Lear followed later in the game for fighting.

Statistics gave Winnipeg a slight edge on ground plays, but they were beaten in the air with Regina completing five of 13 passes beside intercepting five bomber attempts.

Late Rally Cuts Futures Losses

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Wheat prices suffered losses of almost a cent in early trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange but rallied late in the session and closed ¼-⅛ cent lower, October 73⅞b, December 74⅞b and May 78⅝ cents a bushel.

Reports of some export trade in Canadian wheat for the United Kingdom yesterday and firmness at Chicago caused a let-up in hedging sales.

Reported Molotov Visit To London Is Not Confirmed

LONDON, Oct. 14—(CP)—Published reports here that Premier Stalin may send either Foreign Commisar V. M. Molotov or former Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov to London for further talks concerning British and United States aid to Russia went unconfirmed Monday.

The Express said "A leading Soviet statesman" may come "soon," and named Molotov and Litvinov as possibilities. British and Russian sources here said they had no knowledge of the reported mission.

Canadian Corps Holds Concert To Fete Ladies

Like an old English "music hall" was the concert presented Saturday evening by the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Corps Association in the Empire theatre as the annual "Ladies' Night", entertained more than 1,500 Corps members, their wives and friends.

Featured, in addition to such old favorites as Jack Jones, Jimmy Dent and Dorothy Galloway, was the Juneau School of Dancing in a variety of numbers including folk dancing, adagios, acrobatic dancing and a well-executed "V" for Victory arrangement.

William Angus and Frank Williams were well-received as baritone vocalists.

COMIC SONGS

Dorothy Galloway, star of many Belasco Players productions, soon had patrons "rolling in the aisles" when she appeared as an aged elf and sang, "Nobody Loves A Fairy When She's Forty". Jack Jones, Jimmy Dent and Ralph Brown added comic songs to the program. Color in the show was rendered by Jack Tyler, minstrel man.

Brilliant in their distinctive costumes were members of the Canadian Corps Boys' Band, who presented favorites of martial music. Matt Gibbons directed the Corps men's band throughout the evening and supplied intermission music. Sam Hobson was piano accompanist.

PATRIOTIC FINALE

Highlight of the evening was a colorful, patriotic finale, in which all members of the cast participated. Opening with artists from the Juneau school, who in dance paid tribute to their "Brittania", the scene next featured Frank Williams and Bill Angus, who sang a stirring rendition of "There'll Always Be An England." This was culminated when the rest of the caste appeared on the stage with representatives of the R.C.A.F. and the R.C.N.V.R., the baritones in battle dress representing the army.

As organizer of the concert, Harold Wright was the recipient of many congratulatory expressions from his fellow Corps members on the splendid manner in which the program had been organized and carried out.

Resignation Of Board Chairman Now Effective

Announcement was made Saturday morning by Peter Forbes, chairman of the Zoning Appeal Board, that he had definitely retired from the chairmanship of that board.

Mr. Forbes recently submitted his resignation to the city commissioners, but was prevailed upon to leave its going into effect until certain zoning appeal board questions had been determined by the bylaws committee of the city council.

Subsequent events, stated Mr. Forbes, have determined that reconsideration of his resignation is impossible.

ROAD REPORT

A.M.A. Safety Slogan: The man behind can't read your mind —signal.

Tuesday's road report: Heavy rains at Bashaw, Rimbey and Athabasca have made the roads muddy at those points. At Peace River the roads are still muddy but drying fast. For the first time in many days the report shows no part of the road impassable. All other points report dry roads. They are still rough, however, at Rochester, Lac la Biche, Waskatenau and Thorsby.

"Any Amount however small is worth while"

BOY: "Gee, dad, look at this. I got my first pay today!"

FATHER: "Well, well, that's great. Son, you'll be earning money regularly from now on. I want you to get the habit of saving a part, each payday It's easy to learn, when you're young."

BOY: "But Gosh, dad, I'm not making much to start."

FATHER: "That makes no difference. Any amount, however small, is worthwhile. That's ALWAYS good advice, but right now, it's doubly valuable."

BOY: "Why's that?"

FATHER: "Because we've got to win this war. And that means we've got to have guns, ships, planes, and tanks—more and more of them."

BOY: "But what's that got to do with my saving?"

FATHER: "A great deal. Put your money into War Savings Certificates, to keep our soldiers, sailors, and airmen supplied with all the things they need. In that way you'll be doing your bit for Canada, and making money at the same time. For each four dollars you invest will be worth $5 in seven and one-half years."

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.

Thousands Attend Thanksgiving Day Patriotic Rally

Police Report Many Accidents During Week-End

Five persons were hurt, one seriously, and five will face charges of dangerous driving as a result of a holiday week-end flood of 29 accidents on city streets. Four of those hurt were taken to city hospitals.

Betty Wright, 9, 9924 83 avenue, is in the Royal Alexandra hospital with concussion and a possible skull fracture as a result of being struck by a car at 82 avenue and 99 street at 12:45 p.m. Saturday.

Charles Bright, 9425 90 street, reported to police he was driving his car east on 82 avenue when a car struck in front of him stopped to discharge passengers. As a result, Bright told police, he did not see the Wright girl run out from the south sidewalk.

The child was struck by the right front headlight. Bright was charged with dangerous driving.

ROLLED OUT OF CAR

A woman, was taken to the Misericordia hospital with bruises to the left leg and body, suffered when she rolled out of the door of a taxi she had hired when the car was in motion at 101 street and 117 avenue at 8:10 p.m. Saturday.

Hospital officials stated Tuesday the woman had given her name as Miss Kay McKinnon of 12043 106 street.

According to the report to police traffic officers, the woman hired a car at the Davies Taxi company, 10293 101 street, and asked to be driven to 128 avenue and 106 street.

Driver Gordon Edginton, 7529 110 avenue, stated that while he was

THE QUESTION

Drought which afflicted the eastern United States recently, resulted in President Roswell G. Ham of Mount Holyoke College advising undergraduates to use water "as if it were gold" and allowed tub baths and showers. What do you think of his pronouncement and edict?

THE ANSWERS

MERLE STEPHEN, student: At first glance it seems like a rather silly statement, but I guess there was good reason for it. Water, like everything else, is valued and appreciated according to the old law of supply and demand. In this case there was a large demand and small supply; therefore the commodity had to be used sparingly.

TREVOR DIXON, clerk: In the last several weeks when there has been "water, water everywhere" in this area with lots to drink and plenty for the bath, it seems strange that there would be a shortage in the eastern U.S. where there are many mountains, lakes and rivers. But, in view of the drought, then use of water had to be cut down and the college president was quite right in conserving the supply.

JOAN THORSBY, clerk: With drives on to conserve so many things, I am not at all surprised that economy in the use of water was urged. I guess it had to be used as economically as possible if there wasn't much of it available.

THOMAS ALFRED, businessman: Water doesn't often take on a value akin to gold. But the desert traveller would give his all for a small amount of water and it is easy to visualize occasions when even such a common, ordinary commodity as water can take on a value as great, if not greater than gold. If you are dying of thirst, all the gold in the world won't help very much.

Spirit Of Rugby Game Will Defeat Hitlerism, Edmonton Crowd Told

The spirit behind the North American rugby game will win the war for democracy, and absence of that spirit will cause our defeat; Norway and Poland were added to the list of defeated countries because they had no one to call their signals and France, despite a magnificent forward line, had no backfield and no quarterbacks. It is up to every citizen of Canada to "hit our line . . . hard, with every ounce of strength and with every man on his toes."

So said the Rev. Athol Murray, head of Notre Dame College of Saskatchewan. Wilcox, Sask., when he addressed a mass patriotic rally of more than 12,000 citizens, including several thousand airmen, soldiers and sailors, Monday at No. 3 Manning Pool, R.C.A.F., at the Exhibition grounds here.

Father Murray was present in the city as coach of the Notre Dame Hounds, who were matched against Maple Leafs, city champions, in a rugby match that culminated an afternoon of Thanksgiving prayers and hymns, rally addresses, a gigantic parade and an exhibition of parachute jumping. The Maple Leafs won the game 18 to 8.

Proceeds of the rally and sports days will be given to the Edmonton Community Chest, and the Canadian Red Cross aluminum drive.

There were 7,031 tickets issued for admission to the grounds and of these 2,319 were issued for pieces of aluminum contributed at the gate.

The total amount of money collected from ticket sales was computed, Monday night at $1,648.30. The Notre Dame Hounds rugby club will receive $500, the Edmonton Junior Rugby league $500 and there will be approximately $500 for the Community Chest.

Most of the expenses, such as printing of posters, programs and tickets, were donated.

Getting Around with JOHN OLIVER

CONVERGING from all directions, marching along the highways and byways with banners flying high and in through the very portals of this city itself, Autumn has taken complete possession of weather and outlook. As a result of this movement, a tremendous alteration has come over the face of the earth hereabouts, in the last couple of weeks.

Shortly after the long Labor Day week-end, harbingers of the Autumnal advance were heralded. Leaves at the Highlands turned red and the Saskatchewan Valley in the Capital Hill and Counirv Club districts seemed all of a sudden to look like a highly unrestrained Turkish rug. The Whitemud, Blackmud, Sturgeon and other favored showspots were indulging in chromatic orgies and even the Rocky Mountains caught the contagion, making the exhibitionism unanimous.

Now the scene is different. The gorgeous colors have faded out, for the most part, under the continued pressure from Jack Frost, and the protracted rains, while steady winds have all but stripped the trees. From a promontory in the Capital Hill area, where the river valley can be seen for a long distance both up and down, a generally dreary spectacle greeted the eye. In spots where a month ago one could not have peered more than a few feet inside the unending timber stands, now one can see for long distances and discern objects without difficulty. Monday at one such vantage point on Capital Hill I saw ice covering a pool on one of the usually well-travelled roads.

Here and there, some evidence was obtainable of summer's fastdisappearing glory. Mountain ash trees still proudly displayed red berries and spread branches cov-

Charity Chest Fund Reaches $51,485 Mark

Headed by splendid contributions from C. Woodward Ltd. employees of about $1,000 of which $807 has now been recorded in Chest Headquarters the Chest fund continues to mount. Totals to Saturday evening were $51,485.30 or 58.3 per cent of the total objective.

Announcement of the fine Woodward donation was made by John Dower, chairman of the clothing section of the industrial-commercial division, who received it from J. W. Butterfield, manager of the company, on behalf of the executives and employees.

L. Hyndman and B. G. Aylen, co-chairmen of the profesaional section of the I.C. division, were the first to announce that their section had gone over their quota. Reporting $3,425.50 on Saturday with more returns yet to come the section went well over the $3,000 objective set for them. Clare Chubb, I.C. division chairman, congratulated them and awarded them the prize for the first to reach the objective set.

SEEK EXCEED QUOTAS

Competition still continues to determine how much over quotas will be reached by various sections. The clothing division reached 73.5 per cent of quota with many calls as yet unreported. The produce section has reached 75.5 per cent with the reporting of subscriptions from Edmonton City Dairy $500 and employees of the E.C.D. contributing $300. This was matched by contribution from the Woodland Dairy of $500 and a further contribution from employees of the Woodland Dairy $300. These donations were

Relief Cash May Be Discontinued

Discontinuance of payment of unemployed relief in part cash has been necessitated by refusal of the provincial government to pay any portion of such relief which is issued in cash, city commissioners informed city council in a communication coming before that body at Tuesday's meeting.

Commissioners are seeking the city council's authorization to discontinue the cash payments, and authorizing the issuance of relief to vouchers only.

The communication from the provincial bureau of public welfare reads: "During the past several years it has been the practice of your relief department to issue a percentage of relief in cash, and this has been participated in by the senior governments.

"This policy has been criticized on the grounds that cash so supplied may be diverted into channels other than those for which it is intended, and in order to avoid any further criticism in this regard it has now been decided that the government grant will be discontinued as to any portion of relief which is issued in cash. This is to take effect from today's date."

Regular monthly meeting of the Edmonton Hospital Board will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the committee rooms. Supper will be served.

ered with colored leaves in all directions. There were fleeting glimpses of foliage flaunting everything the spectrum offers between pumpkin yellow and MacIntosh-apple crimson. But, covering many miles during Sunday and Monday, one was irresistibly impelled to the conclusion that Autumn's heavy hand is upon us and that any day we must expect reports that winter is "just around the corner."

On the other hand, the early gains made by Autumn, may result in a temporary stalemate, as the arrival of more pleasant weather might indicte the beginning of the Indian Summer for which we have had our eyes wide open. There may be several weeks of reasonably good weather before winter lays its cold, white hand on the earth. Here's hoping. But, a glance at the trees and gardens is convincing proof that the definite break with summer and early fall has been made.

However, one is thankful for the riot of color that we have been privileged to see. The early autumnal outburst of color apparently serves no useful biological purpose. It seems to be just one of those magnanimous manifestations like sunsets, rainbow and Northern Lights that Mother Nature, in her exuberance, yields as bonuses to keep animate creation thinking well of its earth and thankful to be alive.

Jam Is Sent To Sweeten Bread British Kiddies

Happy jam-smeared faces of kiddies will soon be the order of the day in the British Isles, for, on Tuesday, 5,000 pounds of home-made jams and honey left Edmonton for shipment overseas.

The shipment is the first to leave the city, and is made up of 120 cases each containing 12 four-pound tins.

The jams and honey were donated by householders in Edmonton and district to the local branch of the Red Cross for shipment overseas.

Ukrainian Citizens Make Plans Carry Fight Against Nazi Force

About 200 Ukrainian citizens of Edmonton reaffirmed their determination to aid the homeland in all ways possible at "this time when the Nazi-Fascist hordes are attempting to destroy all good in the world," at a meeting in the Imperial hall Sunday, sponsored by the Ukrainian Association to Aid the Fatherland.

Main speaker at the meeting was N. Alexiuk, secretary of the association, who sketched a short history of the British-Soviet and German-Soviet relations. He followed this up by stating that today's relations between Britain United States and the Soviet is the best guarantee for the survival of civilization.

He urged that no effort be spared by Canadian-Ukrainians to help bring on a speedy allied victory.

He charged that prevalent in Canada is a Ukrainian-Fascist press which is serving as a mouthpiece for Hetman Skoropadsky, who are at present serving Hitler in Berlin.

"These newspapers of the Ukrainian Quislings among the Ukrainians of Canada are subsidizing the war effort," he charged.

The organization is conducting a campaign to collect $100,000, 20 per cent of which is to be diverted to the requirements of the Canadian Red Cross and the rest to buy medical supplies for the armies of the Soviet Union.

Rising Spiritual Tide Seen By Church Leader, Conference Here Told

"In all my five decades of travel, I find that now, more than ever before, is the time of rising of the spiritual tide in its many phases," Dr. John Mott, world Christian statesman of the century, said in an address to a capacity audience in the First Presbyterian church on Monday evening.

Dr. Mott, who is chairman of the International Missionary Council, with headquarters in London and New York, was guest speaker at the Edmonton area conference of the interchurch Conference on "Christianity in the World Today."

The conference opened Monday in First Presbyterian church and is continuing Tuesday in McDougall United church.

Chairman of Monday evening's meeting was Canon A. M. Trendell, rector of All Saints' Cathedral church. Guests of honor included Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, Premier William Aberhart, Mayor John W. Fry, Canon L. A. Dixon, secretary of the foreign mission of the Anglican church and ministers of the United Baptist, Presbyterian and Anglican churches of Edmonton.

NEED EVANGELISM

Dr. Mott, a leading figure in interdenominational church work in 83 countries, many of which he visited on several occasions during his 54 years of campaigning, stressed the urgent need of a larger evangelism in a sense of larger adaptation in the world now. There is need for revising plans to meet the ever changing world, he added.

Missing Man's Body Is Found Lying In Bush

Tergued by police an obvious suicide, body of Patrick Turner, 69, missing resident of the 101 street old immigration building since Friday, was found in the bush just south of the Royal Alexandra hospital at 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

The body was found lying face down beneath a small poplar tree with a broken necktie knotted tightly round the neck.

Detectives A. Brenner and P. Appleby, who were called by a doctor at the Royal Alexandra hospital, reported it seemed certain the man had tied one end of the necktie to the trunk of the tree about five feet six inches from the ground but the weight of the body had caused the tie to break.

A doctor estimated death had occurred about 24 hours previous to finding of the body.

Discovery of the body was made by Lewis O'Neill of 10224 110 avenue, who in turn notified Dr. Bradley, an interne in the hospital, who called police.

Det. William McDonald, coroner's officer, ordered the body removed to the Howard and McBride's funeral parlors.

There will be no inquest, it was announced by police Tuesday.

Identification of Turner was made through a national registration certificate and other papers found on the body.

Dorothy Dix Says:

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have a modern wife. She packs all of the responsibilities of married life on my tired shoulders, tired from the bruises and batters of running an individually owned business in this day of strain and stress. She does not a hand's turn of work. She does not allow herself to be burdened with the most minute responsibility. The office removes even the routine of paying her bills.

Dorothy Dix

I make money, but I cannot satisfy her desires. She is sorry she didn't do better in marriage. She can't see why she can't have everything that millionaires have. She thinks I must be in the wrong business, or else I lack the ability of other men. Trying to satisfy her wishes is impairing my credit and ruining my health. She thinks all a husband is good for is to make money for his wife to throw away.

My business cannot grow or continue to succeed on such a basis. It is becoming unInspired. I am losing hope, energy, everything, slipping. Yet I have been man enough to handle men and build up a business and, in all modesty, I am superior to my wife mentally, but she dominates the scene. This may sound doleful, but it is doleful. So what? FORTY.

Answer—The inscrutable mystery of marriage is the henpecked husband. Why so many men who are strong, brave, intelligent and who have shown that they have the ability to rule other men and create and carry on huge enterprises so often let themselves be dominated by the Dumb Doras to whom they are married?

What women can't understand is why husbands submit to being tyrannized over by their wives. Why don't they stage a rebellion? Why don't they make their wives do their part of the work in the matrimonial partnership? Why does a man put up with a lazy, sloppy, good-for-nothing wife any more than he would with a lazy, trifling business partner?

Men have the power to rule their homes because they make the money that supports them. Nearly every wife is dependent upon her husband, not only for her daily bread, but also for her cakes and pie.

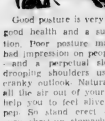

If every husband said to his wife: "We can spend this much and no more. We are going to live within our income, and if you go above it I will stop your charge accounts." there would be no more poor, harassed men dodging the bill-collector.

If every woman knew that she was going to lose her job as a wife if she didn't make her husband a comfortable home and give him good food to eat, there would be no more poor cooks pauoning their families on food good, or feeding them out of bags.

I haven't much sympathy for the men who have to get up and get their own breakfasts, or the men who let their wives work them to death so that they can keep up with the Joneses, or the men who let their wives boss them out of their lives. It is their own fault. They could stop it if they had the courage of a mouse.

DOROTHY DIX

What To Do

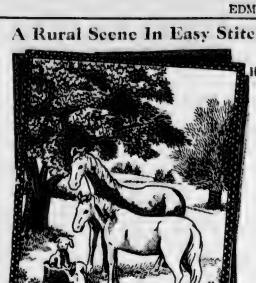

Good posture is very necessary to good health and a sunny disposition. Poor posture makes a very bad impression on people you meet —and a perpetual sloucher with drooping shoulders usually has a cranky outlook. Naturally, keeping all the air out of your lungs won't help you to feel alive and full of pep. So stand erect — shoulders even, chest up, stomach in and head high.

Many office workers acquire a slump because so many girls sit on the end of their spines—with knees crossed and shoulders hunched. Try a little sign on your desk to remind you to sit back on your chair with both feet flat on the floor. It might be hard to get used to sitting correctly but it will pay you by the way you feel at the end of the day —no more dull headaches, sore spine and that leggy feeling.

Try sitting and walking erect for two weeks—and you'll never go back to the "debutante slouch" that was so much imitated a few years ago.

McCoy Health Service

Charlady's knee, housemaid's knee, bursitis, and synovitis, are all symptoms and the conditions represents an acute inflammation of the ace or bursa, that lies in front of the knee. This disease is often mistaken for inflammation of the synovial membrane of the knee joint, whereas in synovitis the swelling is at the sides of the knee, and the kneecap is drawn forward. However, whether it is bursitis, or synovitis, the symptoms are similar, and the pain is intense.

The usual symptoms are pain, swelling, and considerable distress and discomfort in the region of the knee. The swelling is usually localized and there may be suppuration or the formation of pus, which aggravates the condition. Unfortunately one attacks seems to weaken the part so that it predisposes it to future attacks.

When there is a chronic condition present it is usually predisposed by a toxic poisoning which is systemic and it may come from a focus of infection somewhere within the body. Under these conditions the focus of infection should be found and removed, or if there is a general systemic toxemia, measures should be taken to cleanse the entire system by means of the fruit juice fast. This may need to be repeated from time to time in order to entirely eliminate the toxins.

Strict attention should be paid to the organs of elimination and these should be kept at the maximum of efficiency in eliminate the waste matter. When suppuration occurs it may be necessary to depend upon surgical intervention before relief may be obtained. When this is resorted to the sac is opened to permit drainage.

The individual affected should avoid walking as much as possible until the soreness has subsided. The exercises of the other joints which are not affected should be indulged in.

Treatment includes those measures which should be used to rest the limb affected and hot applications may be applied for the relief of pain. Those near a physician who uses short wave diathermy treatment would do well to get the help which this affective treatment brings in such cases.

The cure requires considerable patience and even after a cure has been effected, it will probably be necessary for the patient to watch his food carefully for a long time, especially in regard to food combinations and to avoid the use of foods such as the starches and sugars which may cause an excess of intestinal fermentation.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, 1151 West 8th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

McKenney On Bridge

This book introduces many bidding methods that are a departure from the prevalent practice today. The author criticizes some slam conventions as inaccurate and inefficient. He bases a slam convention dependent upon a new point-count of his own.

Simonkjaer apparently favors "regular" bidding as against even this own slam convention. He gives several examples of a hand bid to slam both ways and when there is any difference, the regular bidding gets the better result.

Certainly in today's hand the use of conventions might confuse the issue. North's jump to six no trump seems the simplest and best course. It happens that South can make seven no trump. He wins the opening lead in dummy and takes a finesse of the jack of spades. Now, even if he does not finesse against the jack of hearts, East is squeezed in the black suits when all six red top cards are cashed.

But seven no trump would be an unjustifiable contract. The chance against finding the adverse cards right is too great to warrant the risk.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Yesterday this department discussed the child who loved all vegetables though they proved too laxative to him. The more common problem is that of the child who doesn't like vegetables at all or likes but one or two and will have none of the others.

Vegetables are an essential part of the child's daily diet so it is important that he eat some of them. They provide vitamins, minerals, starch and an incomplete form of protein. They provide an indigestible refuse which is helpful in stimulating intestinal activity.

The leafy, green vegetables are rich in minerals, vitamins, and refuse, but they contain less nourishment (counting by calories) than do the pods and tubers—the pods being vegetables of the bean and pea type and the tubers those similar to carrots, beets, and potatoes, which grow beneath the ground.

Both the pods and the tubers contain more starch and therefore are higher in caloric value than the leafy vegetables. This doesn't mean that they are better, but have more nourishment which is depositied as fat.

A child needs an assortment of the three types of vegetables, not one to the exclusion of the others. And because there are so many kinds representative of each type, it is a mistake to push spinach down the child when he can get the same kind of nourishment from beet-tops or lettuce or broccoli or tender cabbage. Just accept the fact that children do have tastes and react to them noticeably.

If the child likes one or two vegetables better than others, let him have those. It is only a matter of buying these two exclusively instead of an assortment. The variety can come later. Sometimes just a spoonful of a new vegetable can be included with the favorite ones and it will go down without reaction.

Often to change the form of the vegetable, serving it as a souffle, or as a creamed soup, or mixed with potato, or with hard-cooked egg, will change its taste so materially that the child will enjoy it.

To allow an older child to help prepare the vegetables he is to eat is a splendid way to make that vegetable seem utterly desirable.

But, by and large, it seems unnecessary to impress the child with his dislikes by making the frequent comment that he won't eat carrots or what have you. If he is ever to like carrots, it is better to remove them without comment when he refuses them, since that some day, in some way, carrots will begin to taste good to him.

My leaflet, "Food Elements", outlines the content of many common foods and will show you how to substitute foods your child likes for those he refuses to eat, without loss of nutritional value.

Budget Menus Welcome Harvest Vegetables

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Harvest vegetables are a blessing to our budget menus. Harvest fruits bring health and pleasure to our tables at reasonable cost. Try to use as many local fruits and vegetables as possible. They cost less.

VEGETABLE PLATE WITH CHEESE SAUCE

(Six servings)

One head of cauliflower, 6 tomatoes, 1 teaspoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter, melted, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 2 cups whole kernel corn, 1 egg, beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, one No. 2 can whole, green string beans, 1 tablespoon butter.

Place cauliflower in a 2-quart glass saucepan, partly cover with boiling water. Cook uncovered for 15 to 18 minutes or until tender. Add salt. Remove center from each tomato; thoroughly mix together onion, butter, pepper, corn, egg and seasonings. Fill the centers of each tomato with this mixture. Place in layer cake pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Heat string beans in their own juice. Add one tablespoon butter. Drain cauliflower in resistant platter. Arrange tomatoes around the outside of platter with string beans between each tomato and serve with cheese sauce.

CHEESE SAUCE

Two tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 2 cups grated cheese, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon salt.

Melt butter, remove from heat, blend in flour. Return to the range and add milk a small amount at a time, stirring constantly until thickened. Cook about 5 minutes longer until no starchy taste remains. Stir in grated cheese, parsley and salt. Serve at once.

An excellent way to get whole grain food, rich in B-1 and thiamin, into the diet, is to serve bran dumplings with inexpensive lamb stew made with breast and shoulder cuts.

BRAN DUMPLINGS

(Six servings)

One cup sifted flour, 1 cup bran, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 cup milk. Mix together well the dry ingredients. Cut in fat, add milk, stirring quickly to make a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls on top of stew, making sure dough rests on pieces of meat or vegetables. Cover and cook 15 to 18 minutes.

Have the hair soft at the ears but not "fluffed" out at the jawline. Apply rouge in triangular form under the centre of the eyes. Fade it out toward the lower part of the face. Accent the mouth. Keep the eyebrows in as natural a curve as possible.

In Memoriam 7

To assist readers in preparing "In Memoriam" notices, the Edmonton Bulletin has prepared a booklet of some very appropriate verses. It is free upon request. Call, write or phone for a copy.

In memory of Roy F. Adamson, who died October 14, 1940.

"His [illegible] last wish we should [illegible] to have heard,
And breathed in his ear one parting word.
Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain of the heart in not saying farewell.
We mourned for him in silence,
No one can see us weep,
But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep."
—From Dad, Mother, Will, Don and Bertha.

Police Report Many Accidents During Week-End

proceeding along 101 street, his passenger jumped out of the car and in the rear seat, causing it to open. The woman rolled right out of the car.

She was taken to the office of Dr. J. Boulanger, who ordered her removal to hospital after an examination.

THROWN FROM MOTORCYCLE

Joe Kleparchuk, 8228 101 avenue, suffered a slight cut to the lower lip when thrown from his motorcycle at Jasper Avenue and 102 street at 11:20 p.m. Sunday. The report stated Kleparchuk was riding west on Jasper Avenue, when his right leg guard caught in the bumper of a car turning left which was driven by Mrs. P. Pinsonneault, 10039 115 street. The rider was thrown to the pavement.

Alex Russell, 12716 128 street, reported that a wagon he was driving in a lane at the rear of his home at 9 p.m. Saturday was over a young boy named Victor Logan, 5, breaking his leg.

Russell said one wheel of the wagon passed over the child's leg. The wagon driver said he did not see the child at the time and was made aware of the accident by a loud cry. Russell also told police he had chased the boy away from the wagon before.

Thomas Templeman, 10045 107 street, reported he was driving a truck south on the high level bridge at 9 p.m. Saturday and had slowed with traffic in front of him when a car passing him at a high rate of speed, sideswiped his truck. The car did not stop.

Templeman gave police a license number which was later traced to a soldier at the Prince of Wales armories. A dangerous driving summons has been applied for against the soldier.

CARS DAMAGED

After two cars, standing at the curb, were damaged at 109 street and 97 avenue by a motorist, who failed to stop at 9:45 p.m. Sunday, Monday, police traced the car to a city garage. A garage worker stated that a tire had been repaired for a car belonging to Mrs. M. C. McNeil, 10704 126 street. The latter is said to have told police the blowout had caused her car to swerve and strike the two autos standing at the curb.

Arnold Adell, 9709 109 street, reported the accident, which happened near his home. The parked cars belonged to Leslie Bradley of 9727 109 street and F. E. H. Bowers of the staff of the University of Alberta.

Police made application for a summons for dangerous driving against Mrs. McNeil.

Another charge of dangerous driving was laid following a collision at 104 avenue and 97 street at 7:20 p.m. Sunday.

POLICE LAY CHARGE

J. G. Young, of 11138 96 street, was charged with dangerous driving after his car collided with one driven by S. McCaughey, 11917 90 street. The police report, stated Young's car was turning left on to 104 avenue from 97 street, when the accident occurred.

Young was fined $50 and costs with the option of three months in jail when he appeared in police court Tuesday. In addition his driver's license was suspended for 60 days.

J. Moffat, of No. 2 Air Observers School, was charged with dangerous driving after the truck he was driving allegedly collided with the rear of a parked car at 84 avenue and 105 street at 8:40 p.m. Monday.

Moffat pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded until the afternoon session of court for sentence.

Katherine Crawford, 10712 84 avenue, a passenger in the truck, suffered a fractured upper arm and was taken to the General Hospital.

made through F. J. Reynolds and E. T. Love, managers of the respective companies.

The residential canvass has begun to produce results and to date 257 subscriptions for $729.05 have been reported to the Chest office. Mrs. H. Kinnear indicated that the average contribution in this division was worthwhile, and indicated that householders are aware of their responsibility.

Mrs. Urnaki, convener of the Salvation Army workers, reported receiving a splendid reception. "Folks we see are courteous and generous," she said, "and I am sure that this applies to all who are called upon." The women's group is still busy on calls expecting to make complete returns by Friday evening.

Mrs. Kinnear urged that all who expected to be called upon have their contribution ready for the canvassers in order to save time and the necessity for call backs.

TOTAL RESULTS

Total results to date are $51,485.50. By divisions: Industrial commercial, 1,122 subscriptions, $47,005.45; business zone canvass, 393 subscriptions, $3,749.30; residential zone canvass, 237 subscriptions, $729.05.

Appreciation was expressed by Harvey Harrison, campaign chairman, to the accounting committee headed by Lin Jordan and Alex Gillies, for the careful, efficient and accurate manner in which all returns are being checked as they are reported to the Chest office. As in the case with all except essential stenographic service, all workers in the Chest campaign are serving voluntarily and giving freely of time and energy.

In the final week, every effort will be made by every worker to

Agreement On Fair Grounds Is Submitted

Future relations between the city and the Edmonton Exhibition Association is a matter of policy for the city council, city commissioners report in answering a question by Ald. C. E. Gariepy at a recent council meeting.

Ald. Gariepy inquired particularly as to the future set-up between the two bodies in view of the city's commitments, and with part of the exhibition's grounds taken over by the dominion government he thought it might be wise to change these relations.

Copy of the agreement between the city and the association covering the transfer of the grounds to the dominion department for use during the period of hostilities, was submitted to council. This agreement was ratified between the parties on July 7 last.

ASSOCIATION'S LEASE

It provides for the extensions of the association's lease on the grounds for the period of military occupation by the dominion, the association undertaking the bank for certain operating expenses required during the course of the association's activities.

The agreement provides also for the payment to the association of $8,500 annually by the Dominion government to enable the association to carry on the essential activities necessary to keep in operation with the live stock and breeding associations and other similar institutions, and particularly those interested with in the distribution of purebred livestock.

It provides also that the association will have the right each year to carry on a midway or carnival, the city agreeing to charge no license fee and to make available site for this purpose it shall be, if the city commissioners are agreeable to same, and sewer and water at the association without charge.

Thanksgiving Day Service Held At Science Church

Thanksgiving Day Service was held by the Christian Science church on Monday. The service opened with the singing of Hymn No. 280, Praise My Soul the King of Heaven. A scriptural selection was then read by the First Reader from Psalm 95 followed by silent prayer and the audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer with the spiritual interpretation from the Christian Science textbook, after which the congregation sang the Hymn "We Thank Thee and We Praise Thee."

The subject of the lesson-sermon was "Thanksgiving", and the Golden Text was Psalms 30:12. The responsive reading was alternately by the First Reader and the congregation, was from Psalms 117, 118. One of the scriptural passages contained in the lesson-Sermon was from Psalms 65:11, "Thou Crownest the Year With Thy Goodness, and Thy Paths Drop Fatness." One of the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, was from p. 13: "Christians rejoice in secret beauty and holiness, hidden from the world, but known to God."

Testimonies appropriate for the occasion were given by Christian Scientists. The concluding Hymn was "In Mercy, In Goodness, How Great Is Our King."

The First Reader then read the Scientific Statement of Being from Science and Health, and the correlative Scripture according to I John 3:1-3. The service closed with the benediction from Revelation 7, Verse 12.

Hockey Rink Is Proposed In West End

City commissioners will recommend to city council Tuesday evening that favorable consideration be given to the establishment of a hockey rink immediately north of the West End swimming pool to accommodate junior, juvenile and midget hockey.

A survey of suitable locations throughout the city has been made by Barney Stanley, Charles Smither and W. G. Harris, representing the Edmonton District Hockey Association, and they recommend this site, the commissioners report.

It would be necessary to fence the site and provide two to three weeks of seating accommodation so that admission can be charged to help the clubs pay operating expenses. A shack would have to be erected to provide dressing accommodation for the players. Cost of the construction is estimated at approximately $2,650.

There is already an open air rink in the area which has been operated by the city in past years out of the grant for boys' open air hockey rinks.

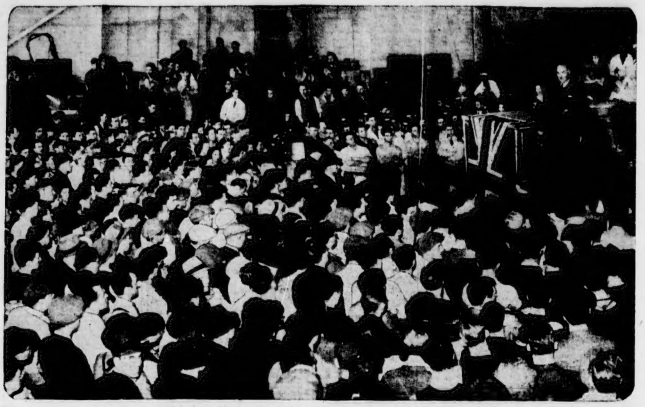

It is clearly intimated in a letter to the city commissioners that if the city is prepared to make the improvements to the present site the association is prepared to operate the junior league as in the past and also the juvenile, bantam and midget leagues.

The association would assume all extra expenses in connection with the staging of junior games, and would pay the city five per cent of the gross receipts up to the first $1,000 of revenue, 10 per cent on the second $1,000 and 15 per cent on all amounts thereafter.

Tank Warfar e In Russia

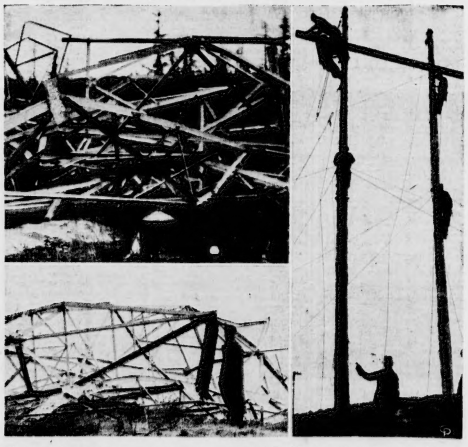

As what is probably the war's greatest smash of mechani zed might against mechanized resistance speedily developed with Germany's desperate all-out panzer drive against Mo scow, this photo was flashed from the Russian capital. It shows what the defenders of Leningrad did to attacking G erman tanks, several of which, disabled, appear in the photo.

Collapse of four cable-carrying steel towers in wild bushland north of Belleville, Ont., under impact of high wind was blamed for break in delivery of Quebec hydro power to Ontario centres, including Toronto, Hamilton and other large cities, causing the worst power tie-up in Ontario's history. Wreckage of two of the steel towers is shown in the photos at left. At right, expert repair crews who fought their way through bush to locate the breaks, are pictured rigging emergency lines on wooden poles to restore the flow of power from Quebec power plants.

What Was Missed

Lying in wait until a barred door was opened to admit a messenger, three armed men looted Hollywood's Paul E. Flato jewelry establishment of an estimated $50,000 in gems — but missed the "big stuff" because it was in use at a motion picture studio. Among the items which the men apparently expected to find were $120,000 in rings and other jewels which only the day before had been loaned for Marlene Dietrich to wear in a film scene. Marlene Dietrich is shown wearing some of the "big stuff."

Daughters Who Dare

—By Rob Eden

JUNE RANDOLPH and DOLLY JARVIS help EDDIE RANDOLPH, June's brother, obtain parole after he has served time for writing bad cheques when he was mixed up in a gambling business. Eddie has borrowed June's car in the afternoon and while it was parked, two strange men put a bag into it. Returning to her home she must be careful that her father doesn't learn she is helping her wayward brother. June has a flat tire. A stranger stops to help her change the tire. Thinking she is getting the tool bag, June opens the one placed in the car by the strangers. Jewels fall from the opened bag. Concealing them from the strangers and thinking Eddie is responsible for them, she buries them by a tree in the park on the way home. ROY LAUGHTON was waiting to take her to the Lowell's where she arrived home. In her room AUNT MARY RANDOLPH asked June about Eddie. They were careful to keep IRENE, June's sister from knowing. June was seeing Eddie—she might tell their father. With her father June finds TODD HAMEL, the man who had helped her change the tire. She goes with Roy to the Lowell's. At the Lowell's dinner guests are talking about the Tracey jewelry store being robbed.

The search for the jewels was useless now. June didn't dare risk even the slightest noise of digging. Carefully, she backed away from the tree.

CHAPTER FIVE

June saw her mistake when she was driving home with Roy. It was after midnight, as there had been bridge after dinner and although she didn't feel like playing, it would have disrupted Mrs. Lowell's plans to refuse.

Animal Crackers

"Sweetheart, I could eat you!"

She realized now that she had been very foolish to hide the jewels in an inaccessible place. She should have taken a chance that they wouldn't be found if she concealed them about the house, handy to return to Eddie so she could make him give them back to Tracy's if they belonged there or take them to the police.

Roy wanted to come in when they reached the Randolph home to raid the ice box as they frequently had in the past for midnight snacks, but June pleaded fatigue and said goodnight to him at the door.

She hurried to her room and it was a matter of moments until she was out of her dinner clothes. She was looking about in her closet for a dark, inconspicuous suit to put on when she heard her sister moving about in the room next door.

IRENE

Irene was a veritable night owl. She didn't go out much herself, but she always was anxious to hear of her younger sister's minor triumphs. Almost invariably, unless June popped promptly into bed, Irene would come in and sit on the edge of her bed and talk for half an hour, going over all the details of June's evening. She seemed to take a vicarious pleasure from it.

Having no desire to spend half he remaining night talking with Irene, June dashed out the light, kicked off her slippers and plunged into bed, pulling the covers up close about her chin.

She heard the door of her room open softly, and from beneath her shaded eyes saw the dim light reflected from the hall.

"In bed, dear?" Irene called softly.

June was silent.

She heard Irene cross the room, open the window, which June had neglected in her hurry to get into bed, and then pad softly back toward the door. It seemed minutes before she heard the door softly click again and knew that Irene had left.

It was nearly an hour later before she crept from beneath the covers, certain by now that her sister was safely in bed and asleep. She found a dark pair of slacks, pulled a sweater on over her head and found a dark coat.

Silently, she slipped down stairs and out the kitchen door, leaving it unlocked so she could return the same way. It would be too dangerous to take the car from the garage, so she fumbled about until she found a bicycle—one she sometimes rode for exercise, mounted it and coasted down the driveway into the street.

It wasn't quite two miles to the park, and she made it in a few minutes, not seeing a soul along the road as she pedaled on her way. At the park she started counting benches from Kensington Drive and, at the fifth one, she stopped and pulled her wheel up on the grass.

THE BENCH

This was the place she had stopped before. She was certain of it. Cautiously she walked slowly toward the trees in the center of the park, looking back over her shoulder at intervals to spot the first bench shining in the reflection of the street light to be certain she didn't get off the proper line.

She came upon the other bench so suddenly she almost cried out. It was in a deep shadow, and she could barely make out its outline. Shaking with fear, she stood perfectly still for a time, waiting for her nerves to quiet down.

Then she heard it. It was a sound like someone breathing deeply, and she shuddered, too frightened to utter a word or to turn and run. By a tremendous effor, she again got control of herself, and forced herself to concentrate on the sound.

It was someone breathing. Her eyes, more accustomed to the darkness now, made out a bulky form on the bench. Someone was there, asleep.

Her first impulse was to turn and get out of the park as fast as she could. But the thought of Eddie came in time to keep her from precipitous flight. She had a job to do, a job on which Eddie's life might depend. Certainly, his future. She had come to do it, and she had to go through with it, despite her fears.

SNORING

June listened. The heavy breathing had become a snore, a rhythmic rasping noise. It sounded so loud to her she was certain it must be audible in the street. In spite of herself she found herself retreating toward the sidewalk, toward the place where she had left her bicycle.

Twenty-five feet away she suddenly realized that she couldn't hear the heavy breathing any more when she stopped and listened. Perhaps it was an hallucination. She must have imagined she saw someone on the bench. Two limbs of a tree, rubbing together, might have made that rasping noise.

Chiding herself as a coward, she retraced her steps, walking boldly this time until she was almost within touching distance of the bench.

Again she retreated, a quick cold red and sighed. There was no mistake about it.

It required all of her courage to go back again, skirt about the edge of the bench. After all, she told herself, the man—whoever he was—was asleep. If she were careful—

She found the tree, but before stooping to start digging for the hidden jewels, she paused again to listen. With the bench between her and the street light, she plainly saw the occupant raise up, stretch and heard him yawn. A short time later she dodged back of the tree as he scratched a match and lighted a cigarette.

The scratch was useless now. She didn't dare risk even the slight noise of digging in the soft dirt for fear of discovery. What could she say if she were caught in possession of a bag full of jewels?

Carefully, June backed away from the bench. At a distance, she turned and walked toward the street on the other side of the row, row park and kept walking until she was around on the side where she had left the bicycle.

JUNE MEETS SOMEONE

It was getting light now. She had been in the park much longer than she had realized. By the time she pedaled up the drive into the Randolph grounds, it was daylight. As quietly as she could, she put the wheel against the side of the garage and was just turning toward the house when Tom, head gardener for the Randolphs, came around the corner.

He was as startled as she at the meeting.

"Why, Miss June—" he began, but she put her fingers to her lips for silence.

"Don't tell anybody, Tom," she whispered. "I've been out for a little early morning exercise. Didn't want to awaken the family."

He nodded his old gray head sympathetically and she hurried through the kitchen into the house.

"My only chance now is to see Dolly, after breakfast," she told herself as she crept upstairs to her room. She'll know where to find Eddie. The bag in the park will just have to stay there until tonight. What a fool I was to bury it there, anyway."

Thousands At Patriot Rally Here Monday

lone, K.C., commanding officer of No. 3 Manning Depot, was responsible for bringing the Notre Dame football team here and initiated the idea of the Thanksgiving day rally.

SYMBOLIZE SPIRIT

"It is only fitting, Fr. Murray declared, "that we symbolize the free spirit of Britain by bringing here, on this day of Thanksgiving, a rugby game between Alberta and Saskatchewan, staged through the courtesy of that Regina clergyman Ilonize down there, Cyril Malone."

Wing Cmdr. Malone, commanding officer of No. 3 Manning depot, did not arrange the affair with the thought of just playing rugby, the speaker said, but rather he wished to translate the game into that dynamic spirit of rugby that will win this war.

"It is a rare privilege to voice the feelings of Canada over the roars of artillery in Russia and through the ferocity of that savage attack against civilization, through this gathering of Albertans with the free peoples represented by these uniformed young men," the sporting priest stated. "A significant and one of the highlights of the whole history of men in this present great blind spots in which we are participans.

MORALIZED SOLIDARITY

"Nazism is the mechanized solidarity of a herd under a tyrannical dictator who rules them as slaves," he said. "The democratic way of life of the free peoples of this vast western hinterland is the moralized solidarity of free people under the leadership of their Aberharts, their Mackenzie Kings, men whom we elect, critize in the Beverley Baxter way, and whom, if we wish, we can depose.

"I am a proud grand nephew of John A. MacDonald (prime minister of Canada from 1878 to 1891), the last of a family of men who did their bit for Canada . . . the last because I lost my brothers in the First Great War. But, are we doing our bit for Canada today? Are we fully conscious of the tremendous threat to our civilization?

"I don't think you people in Alberta are as conscious of that as we are in Notre Jame and Regina."

UNIFORMS OR "TUXES"

"Are those two or three hundred young men in tuxedoes who attend the supper dances here, men that should be in the uniform of these airmen, fully conscious of Canada's need for them?

"Men in Saskatchewan would be ashamed to be seen in tuxedoes if they were under 30. We're a little more patriotic there.

"We've hit a blind spot. We're not all doing what we're fully capable of doing. We Canadians should see to it that from now on we do everything we are capable of. If Hitler were here, if Stalin were here, they'd mop up our vast resources . . . those resources are ours. Il is up to us to use them.

SPORTSMEN WOULD LEAD

"Fellows, I've given my life for sports. But believe me, if I were a Russian soldier right now, if I were fighting a Nazi tank, and then heard that the British empire was right with me in my struggle, I would think it terrible to know that in Canada the biggest argument is whether a hockey player shall go to the United States to play in New York or Chicago.

"Sure, we've had great hockey in Canada, and it's time Hitler found out that the power play and the blitz started on Canadian hockey ice. our heroes and our leaders are the stars of hockey, and I think our heroes were approached in the first place to lead the services, they'd be only too glad to call off their national leagues until the Hitler war is finished. They be over there cheering, shouting and showing that Britannia rules the waves.

"Gad, to give our people an idea of what they should do in this war, we've got to leave these grounds with the intention that we're going to work together. We've got to get our men in uniform that we're with them to the finish, to the last cent."

This is the last appeal of one Canadian to another, friends, let us resolve to make sacrifices to the last limit—to live up as one team and keep plugging after day and night after day. To do this we've got to have funds, and we can't get that money to keep fighting if we're going to be selfish.

The speaker urged that citizens take it upon themselves to support the drive for aid of war services and titles as their way of getting into the line of scrimmage.

UNIFORMED PARADE

The day's program opened with a parade in which more than 2,000 uniformed men on active service participated.

Led by the band of the Second Battalion, Edmonton Regiment (RCA), the parade, in order of marching, included members of the R.C.N.V.R., the Alberta Women's Service Corps the R.A.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. The latter body was divided into two sections to be Canada's first boys' band. Total of 1,500 airmen paraded.

The parade wound around the race track in front of the grandstand and past a saluting base, where Hon. J. C. Bown, lieutenant governor, took the salute. Also at the saluting base were Maj. Gen. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., V.D., D.S.O., K.C., inspector general for western Canada, the latter's staff officer, Maj. Garth Morse; Lieut. Francis Neal, governor's aide; Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant; Lieut. Colin Glassco of the R.C.N.V.R., here; Wing Cmdr. Malone and Wing Cmdr. J. A. Hutchison, C.O. of No. 4 I.T.S.

Premier William Aberhart and Mayor J. W. Fry represented the province and city respectively.

A display in physical training was staged by manning pool instructors and trainees. Prayers of thanksgiving and a number of hymns followed. Participating chaplains were Flt. Lt. J. Gordon Brown, padre to No. 2, A.O.S., and No. 16, E.F.T.S.; Flt. Lt. J. A. Forbes, padre to No. 3 manning depot; Flt. Lt. A. A. Mooney, padre to No. 4 I.T.S., and Capt. Rev. E. T. Scragg, padre to the Edmonton garrison.

The hymns, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," "Eternal Father Strong to Save," and "Land of Hope and Glory" were sung at the service. Delbert McFarland led community singing of the hymns.

Assisting in arrangements for the grand event were Ald. Geo. Campbell, chairman, Hon. Lt. Col. H. R. Milner, K.C., H. Brock Smith, R. E. Staples and Art Carlson, president of the Edmonton Junior Football league.

The 2nd Bn., Edmonton regiment band, conducted by Edward Kirkwood, was in attendance by kind permission of Lt. Col. R. Walter Hale, M.C., commanding officer.

TWO PARACHUTE JUMPS

Two parachute jumps were made by Jack McGovern, parachute jolder at No. 2, A.O.S., and an expert jumper. The first jump landed him near the officers' mess, forming the Women's building, owing to a shift in the wind. On the second jump he landed in the northwest corner of the racetrack infield, where the football game was being played.

The jumping was arranged by Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, O.B.E., D.F.C., general manager of No. 2, A.O.S., and the pilot of the Avro Anson bomber plane from which the jumps were made was George Frank, chief pilot at No. 2 A.O.S.

Community singing was led by a quartet comprising Delbert McFarland, bass; Ed. McGarvey, baritone; William Smith and Elmar Gunderson, tenors.

Spiritual Tide Rising States Church Leader

there is evidence of a larger exposure of man to the central figure, the Lord Jesus Christ," he said. "The tide is rising."

"The spiritual tide of expectation and opportunity, brought about by the present tragedies on the earth, is at a very high level," he said.

BOOKS ON CHRIST

The rising tide from the point of interest in Christ, is clearly evident in the books that in the last few years there has been put before the people the greatest crop of new books on Christ ever published," Dr. Mott said. "This shows a quickening and deepening interest in Christ.

War ridden countries like England, China and Japan have shown an unmistakeable evidence of the rising tide of spiritual faith. The same can be said of countries like India and the Dutch East Indies.

Advances in Christianity made in these lands in the last several decades is almost unbelievable, Dr. Mott said. "In fact it almost puts us to shame," he added.

Dr. Mott stated that the tide is rising but there must be true pilots to steer the ship along the right course. These pilots must know their ports. They must know their course. They must also know their staff and impulse of power. They must know the North Star (Christ himself), he said in conclusion.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET

Dr. Mott addressed an overflow audience of young people in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church at 10 a.m. Monday. This was an interdenominal young people's meeting sponsored by the Interdenominational Young Peoples Board here.

Dr. Mott took as his topic, "The Right of Christ" and reviewed present day crises in many lands of the world to show that Christ has been and will be the generating source of all good changes that have ever taken place in the world. "I therefore have no doubt of the final outcome of the present crisis", he said.

"Christ has the right to control every one of us because of Him. His dominance makes possible," he said. "He will usher us into a marvellous fellowship," he added.

An example of the marvellous fellowship which other parts of this world so sadly lack, is the fellowship created by the intermingling of nations in the west, he said.

Explaining further the idea of fellowship created by religion he referred to the Russian Orthodox church which brings into its fellowship not only the greats of the present but those of the past as well.

"We must pay a threefold price in order to achieve what Christ demands," he said. Those are a clear-cut decision to follow Christ, to continue in the path and being in dead earnest about it all, he added.

He stated that self-exhibition is the biggest reason for so many parting with Christ. Other reasons he listed were harboring some secret of unconfessed sin, drifting, indecision and fear.

In closing his talk Dr. Mott paid tribute to the work now being carried on by Madam Chiang Kai-Shek. He referred to her as the most remarkable woman living today, judging by results.

Gerald Hutchinson was chairman of the meeting.

TOURING WEST

Dr. Mott is on a tour of western Canada travelling under the auspices of the foreign mission boards of the Canadian churches, who are holding their inter-church conferences at the same time.

On Monday afternoon the conference took the form of a general session in which the four officials of foreign missions, travelling with Dr. Mott, participated.

Dr. A. E. Armstrong, mission secretary of the United church outlined the purpose of Dr. Mott's visit to western Canada. Rev. J. A. MacRea, superintendent of the foreign missions of the Baptist church, spoke on the work of their missions among people of non-English speaking origin of the west. Canon Dixon of the Anglican missions added to the discussion the work that the anglican church does among the Indians and Eskimos.

A discussion followed centering around the meaning of Evangelism as read by Canon Dixon.

Dr. W. A. Cameron, secretary of the foreign missions of the Presbyterian church, was the last speaker of the afternoon program. He put before the meeting the question of how to accomplish the task of evangelism through higher levels of stewardship.

Robert Hulbert Buried Saturday

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon for Robert Geddie Hulbert, 83, of the International hotel, who died in the city Wednesday. The service was conducted by Rev. J. P. Berry from Bannerick's funeral chapel. Interment was made in the Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Surviving are two brothers, Hawbrook in British Columbia and James in the U.S.A.; and one sister, Mrs. B. Stuart, in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Hulbert was born in Nova Scotia and came west more than 50 years ago with the Klondike gold rush of 1898. He settled in the city shortly after the rush and entered the real estate business. Large amount of downtown prop-
